ONCE UPON A TIME...

Displaying his spirit at a Friday-break pep rally is sophomore Joe Buis with senior Tammy Perry.

In the year 1824, there was a little log cabin schoolhouse on Spring Avenue. In 1829 the school moved to a two-room brick building at the corner of Washington and Jefferson streets.

In 1919 the high school transferred to the new building on Spring Street, named Martha Jane Ridpath School. Forty-one years later, in 1959, the present high school building was completed. McAnally Center was built in 1969.

In 1986-87, there were new tales to tell—tales of construction changes: new sports facilities being planned and begun, a new student parking lot, away-from-home football games (and a nearly perfect varsity season!), a courtyard; tales of change in the community: the closing of the IBM plant, the expansion of Putnam Plaza, the addition of new businesses uptown—all this influenced our lives and made up the ever-growing tale of Greencastle High School.

By Sherith Pankratz

Entertaining the younger generation at a football game is school mascot Sharon Carlson.

Warm-ups and stretching, led by Paul Bretscher, was part of the daily routine of the freshmen P.E. class.

Attending away-from-home football games is a favorite weekend pastime of freshmen volleyball player Karen Combs.

... there was Student Life

The most important parts of our tale were the over 550 people who made up the student body. For every person there were different personalities, looks, and ideas about what fun was, which made for a pretty exciting year.

Only the latest in teen fashions and hairstyles could be seen in the halls between classes every day and the newest hottest tunes could be heard coming from students cars.

No matter what Tiger Cubs did, they did it with a flair only they could accomplish.

By Aimee Murray

Taking advantage of a quiet moment to study is senior Brian Jeffries.

School is not easy, but senior Carol Braden manages to steal a few moments to catch up on some much needed sleep.

Go Tigers!! Members of the class of '87 show their spirit at the pep rally before sectionals.

Taking a breather between classes are Fred Berish, Scott Dunn, and Sherith Pankratz.

Studying is an undeniable aspect of student life.

What Tiger Cubs Did

From the beginning of March til the end of May we walked around like zombies uttering "Break" repeatedly and when May 28th finally came, the dead awoke. After only a few days, however, the students began to realize that their break was not going to be all fun and sun but, for some, three months of torment.

For some it may have been the dreaded crooning of a complaining mother, or the hated fate of baby sitting a younger brother or sister while mom was at work and to others it was the horrid peril of a summer job.

There was, of course, ways to avoid these tasks. A good example was to go to France for three weeks, or to get a job as a life guard or you could always get lost in your room.

Even though some complained their summer was boring, everyone complained when it was over.

Susan Gibson said, "Summer is a time of leisure and fun."

Chris Haymaker said, "Summer is sleeping late and getting a tan."

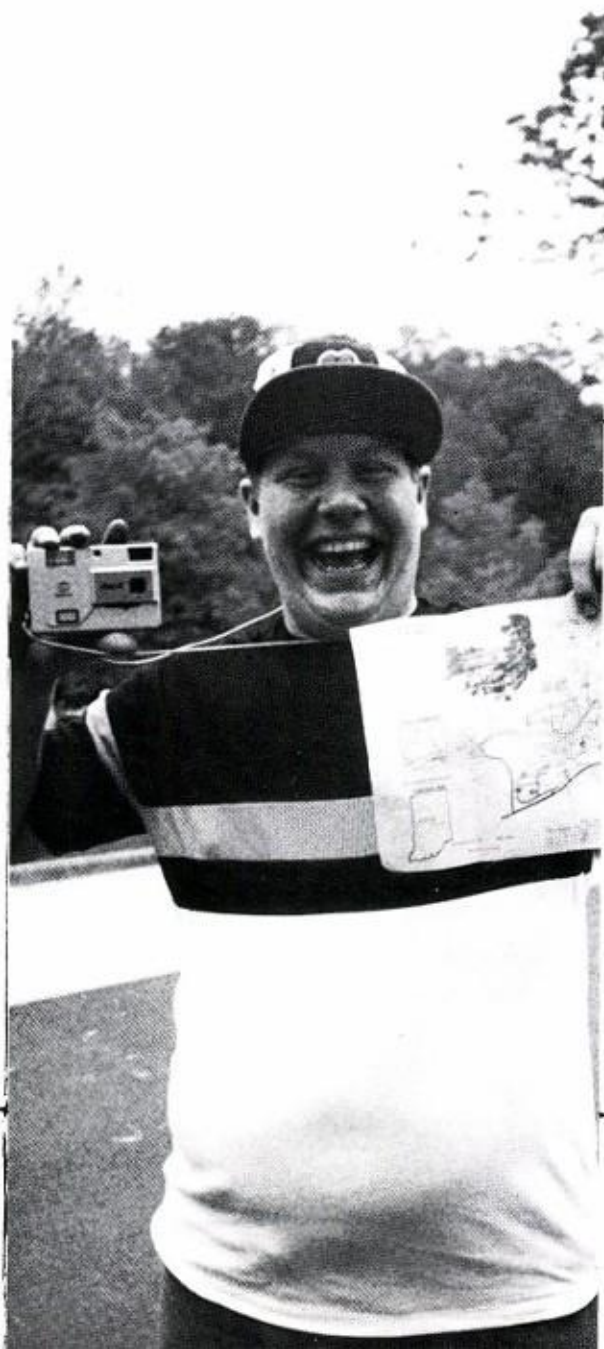

Kate Riley said, "Summer is when I can do what I want to do, not what everybody else wants me to do."

By Mark Frisbie

Camping is an important part of summer for sophomores Rose Newgent, Mendy Burger, Kim Pettit and their friend from Rockville.

Senior Shane Grimes is prepared to travel.

Posing for a pic during the French trip are Kristy Mays, Mark Frisbie, Chris Haymaker and Katie Gretter.

During her trip to New York is Senior Terri Allee who has her brush with fame with the Big Rag-goo.

Spending her summer on stage at the Putnam County Playhouse is junior Aimee Murray.

Being active in summer softball league is one of senior Amy Tucker's favorite pasttimes.

"Ah! Summer vacations are the best. You get to stay up all night with your friends, go crazy during the day, and never have to worry about working on another term paper until next year." — Shane Grimes

For Summer Vacation

Tigers Are Eveready!

As Homecoming night approached, Greencastle rocked with excitement. Despite no parade, the floats were judged with the seniors taking the honors for the theme, "Energized Tigers are Eveready."

The night was perfect for the Tiger Cub football team as they stopped the Cascade Cadets 20-0. The game was played on South Putnam's field due to the construction at our school. Senior cheerleader Maureen Mazur said, "It would have been more exciting cheering at home, but it wasn't as bad as what we thought it would be because of the fan support."

The highlight of the night came at halftime when Patty Brown was crowned the 1986 Homecoming Queen. "I was so happy I cried along with my friends," exclaimed Patty.

All in all it was quite a night to come home to.

by Debbie Danhour

"It was a good night for Homecoming since we won. The rain didn't spoil anything."

— Travis Mundy

"Even though it rained, it didn't dampen the spirits of the candidates and players."

— Tracy Sutherlin

"It was a good team to play for Homecoming because Cascade beat us the year before, so we were really fired up for the game."

— Dennis Campbell

"It was different going to another school to have Homecoming, but it was still fun."

— Mindy Nicholson

Last year's queen Maria Rambo passes on the honor to Patty Brown with a hug.

The winner is . . . ! Patty Brown gasps in surprise as she is named 1986 Homecoming Queen.

Maria Rambo and junior princess Sabrina Gray.

In a flash of purple and gray the Tiger Cubs wrap up a victory.

The marching band, under the direction of drum major Tawnya Pierce provides halftime entertainment.

Spirit! We've Got It!

Starting with Spirit Week sponsored by Student Council, the students dressed for a different occasion each day. Looking like a day at the beach, Monday found students in bold, bright Hawaiian prints. Tuesday the students were decked out in shades, sweats and hats. Kids wearing clothes that clashed made Wednesday the most colorful. Graffiti Day was the theme for Thursday as students autographed each others white T-shirts. "Purple and Gray" day was on Friday.

"You can act crazy all week and not get in trouble," commented junior Lisa Thomas. Beth Cox said, "I think anyone who doesn't get involved in Spirit Week is crazy."

Led by the GHS band and varsity cheerleaders, music and cheers could be heard throughout the building during a pep session on Friday.

Making batteries, loaves of bread or storks for floats became the order of the week. Rain Friday afternoon resulted in the parade being cancelled, but floats were brought to school the following Monday for viewing.

by Kristy Mays

Mary Cox helps to decorate the freshmen float for Homecoming.

Patty Brown is electrified by the Eveready senior float when helping with Homecoming preparations.

Pep session spirit unites band members and football players.

Tiger Cubs shows their intense school spirit by observing Hat & Sunglasses Day.

Terry White shows his tiger pride with a senior first for the best float.

Homecoming brings out the tiger spirit!

"I think anyone who doesn't get involved in spirit week is crazy." —
Beth Cox

Laura MacWilliams helps to put the freshmen float into flight.

Oh Yah! We've Got It!

Tiger Cubs Run

A walk through the halls of GHS was like a fashion time warp. Everything from senior cords and shaved heads to fatigues by Banana Republic and male earlobes with holes in them could be found in our school. In '87 the Izod was extinct, leaving Ralph Lauren alive and kicking. Coca-Cola plastered their names on shirts and Banana Republic came out of the jungle. The school dress code consisted of 501's, Reeboks, a teeshirt, short hair and a pseudo-tan. Few ignored it, and those who did just weren't in!

Bloom County made it big this year along with Gary Larson's The Far Side, Controversy was also big this year. The Iran Arms scandal and Sex Education are just a few examples.

Well, as far as fads are concerned, the world had them and our school was no exception. But Hey! Who cares, we were "IN"!

by Mark Frisbie

Donning the denim mini skirt that is hot for '87 is freshman Michelle Gastineau.

Displaying the shaved look that is in for the season are football team members Todd Bouslog, Charlie Poynter, and Todd Sutherlin.

With the untied tennis shoes fad are seniors T. White and Travis Mundy.

Known as the Sante Fe look, sophomore Kathy Hammond dressed for success in denim and white leather.

Senior jeans are back and Ron Woodall and Paul Walters are the two who revive this age old trend.

Chuck Taylor high tops and denim jackets are "in" and so are sophomores Nancy Claar and Katherine Emery.

With The "In" Crowd

IBM and Construction

On November 11, 1986, the city of Greencastle learned that its largest employer, IBM, would close by March of 1987.

The Greencastle Community Schools had 200 students whose parents worked at IBM and half of them were at the high school level. However, most students stayed with friends until the school year was over.

Senior Lori Combs expressed her feelings by saying, "I am lucky that this is my senior year and I have all ready accepted the fact that I may never see certain members of my class again."

by Debbie Danhour

Jana and Jill Fogle say good-bye before Jill leaves for Pennsylvania with her father.

"It doesn't affect me directly but I feel sorry for the families that will be broken up."

—Charlie Paynter.

"The major reason on how I'm affected is that we have to move. I don't think I will be as close to my new friends as I was here."

—Kevin Mazur.

"My father is going to retire. I, therefore, may have to help pay for my college education."

—Kent Flint.

"I will lose my job and lots of friends,"

—Kelly Emberton.

Mrs. Bond, Greencastle secretary, prepares to leave due to IBM relocation.

Construction workers plow under the football field to make a new student parking lot.

The Courtyard is reduced to mounds of dirt before construction of the new wing begins.

The sight of workmen during the day is a common one

Spending hours working over budgets, talking to financial advisors and pounding out a proposed $13.3 million dollar renovation of the high school and new middle school plans became a reality.

The middle school building corporation sought to raise $10.8 million via a public bond sale. This corporation opted to sell the bonds to a broker, who in turn sold the bonds at his own risk. This is called a negotiated sale. The school raised $11,440,000 through the negotiated sale.

The bond sale was handled by a five member Middle School Building Corporation. The members were Dale Pierce, Bob Shuee, Dave Hurst, Bob Hutchings and Jerald Calbert. The financial advisor to the project was Bernhard Perry.

The school projects are an improvement in educational facilities and the community. Freshman Courtney Crawley said, "It will pay off in the future."

The overall response of the building addition and renovation was favorable. Vice Principal Calvin Rehlander said, "I am personally satisfied. The weather has been great and the cooperation has been good from students and teachers despite the inconveniences." Senior Doug Hedrick said, "It's really great for the freshmen, because they are going to be able to enjoy the remodeling by the time they are seniors."

Mean Big Change

Performing is Magic

As the lights dimmed, a heavy hush fell upon the crowd, with the sound of the curtain motors their neck hairs stood erect with tingle. Suddenly the spot light cut through the darkness, creating a stage where before was only darkness.

This sensation was a common one this year in Jess McAnally auditorium. The Thespians started out the year with Magic, Magic, a play about a young woman who rents a loft only to discover that she shares it with an entire magic troupe. With the falling of the snow came the One Acts, only this year they were presented as a dinner theatre. Four plays were involved in the One Acts. They were: The Cop and the Anthem, which was about an educated vagrant who is trying to get arrested so he will have shelter for the winter. The second was the Lottery, which was about a small farm community which holds an annual set morbid lottery. The third The Man Who Died and Went To Heaven is a hotel and God is the manager and finally was the Open Window where a little girl who has an infatuation with lying gets everyone in trouble.

As the snow turned to water and the creeks once again began to flow, so did the ideas for the Spring Production. After much thought a Variety Show was chosen over a play. Try-outs were held, and everything from air-bands to real bands gave the presentation on the night of the show.

by Mark Frisbie

It's not easy being the boss as these student directors find out during auditions for the one acts.

Playing opposite one another in the one act "The Man Who Died and Went to Heaven" are Carrie Whitlock and Bill Lezotte.

Visiting a town house for relaxation is Senior Bert Brown surrounded by residents Theresa

Guerrettaz, Courtney Crawley and Sharon Carlson in the one act "The Open Window."

Playing the devil in "The Man Who Died and Went to Heaven" is senior Lori Hammond.

Showing appreciation is senior Lori Hammond by presenting flowers to Thespian sponsor Jan Lucas on behalf of all participants.

and Extravaganza

Favorites were Awards

Giving Senior Chris Hanson a warm handshake of congratulations is Varsity Basketball coach Doug Miller.

Accepting the Terry Cheerleader award for her enthusiasm is Diane Kendall.

Stepping forward to receive his Music Award from music director Geoffrey Price is the choir and classic member Ron Pitcock.

Receiving the Art Award given by Tri Kappa is Art Club member Ron Woodall.

Proudly receiving the Greencastle Teacher's Award is senior Lori Combs.

"I was super-surprised because I didn't think I would get it."

—Heidi Riggs

"It was a really great honor to be chosen as one of the outstanding French students."

—Katherine Emery

"I was astonished and excited when my name was called for the Outstanding Business Award."

—Jana Terry

Cuddling up to her favorite teddy is Kim Hinkle with "Nick the Christmas Bear."

Looking like a "dude", Terry White sits on his prized possession—his motorcycle.

Showing pride in his car, senior Todd Bouslog poses by his '65 Mustang.

Having slipped into something more comfortable is Doug Hedrick wearing his favorite robe.

"I love my cat because it's fluffy and follows me everywhere," said senior Wade Terry. In general, different people liked different things and the people at Greencastle are definitely different.

Another eccentric, Natalie Porter said, "I love gum more than anything; I'm addicted to it."

To some it was a car, while to others a pet, alive or stuffed. King David had his harp. Roy Rogers had his horse Trigger, and Citizen Kane had his sled Rosebud.

Favorite things could be simple trinkets like blown glass figures, while others could be invaluable. Mrs. Madison, English teacher, said, "My favorite thing is my mother's book of memories."

Students Break Away

Give me a break! Spring breaks, Christmas breaks, fall breaks, Easter breaks, summer breaks, lunch breaks, weekend breaks and daily breaks helped students and faculty members make it through the year.

Junior Brett Hecko said, "Christmas is my favorite break because we get two weeks away from school." Agreeing was sophomore Eric Twigg who said, "It means the school year is half over."

Breaks took away the monotony of a routine. Instead of the regular schedule, breaks gave us something to look forward to.

Swimmer Carrie Nealon commented, "Spring break is best because you get to travel and get a tan, and it's the first break in a long time and you really need it."

Perhaps Social Studies teacher Ken Mitchell summed breaks up best when he said, "They give me a chance to rest, stay up late, and go places with my family."

by Sharon Carlson

Faculty members enjoy a breakfast given by the Library Club.

A coffee break is a welcome relief for school secretary Kay Pearson.

Tasting hors d'ouvres at the home of Kim Cooper are members of the French Club.

Excited about taking a break on a trip to New York are band members Rose Newgent and Mendy Berger.

Spending free time on the Burger King playground during the choir trip to St. Louis are Heather Rector, Jim Jones, Tracy Gorham, Katherine Emery and Susan Wagle.

Spending their Good Friday vacation at Glenn Flint Lake are seniors Todd Bouslog and Shane Grimes with junior Kyle Daughterty.

From Books, Test, . . .

Music Brings Out

Whether it was David Lee Roth, Run-D.M.C., Bon Jovi, Paul Simon, Madonna, Huey Lewis and the News, or the Beastie Boys, music played an important part in many students' lives. We could call Paul Simon "Al" while Bon Jovi had us livin' on a prayer. We were going crazy with David Lee Roth, but Huey Lewis told us it was hip to be square.

The music scene centered around a number of groups at GHS. The first rap group was organized and consisted of Richard Weaver, Ron Woodall, Howard Bess and Paul Walters. It premiered its all-original material as did the classic rock 'n roll group Spectrum at the Spring Extravaganza.

by Paul Walters

Jamming at the Spring Extravaganza is senior Wade Terry and David Pleiss.

Entertaining the crowd during timeouts are members of the pep band Robb McCabe and Dave Pleiss.

Spending time in line for the Bon Jovi concert are juniors Michelle White, Sherith Pankratz and Tracy Plesinger.

Why a Volunteer?

"I like to work with kids."
—Sunday school teacher
Katie Gretter

"It's a good experience. When I go to college, I want to be a nurse."
—Sarah Marchbanks

"I really like being a candy striper because I get to help people."
—Cindy Brewer

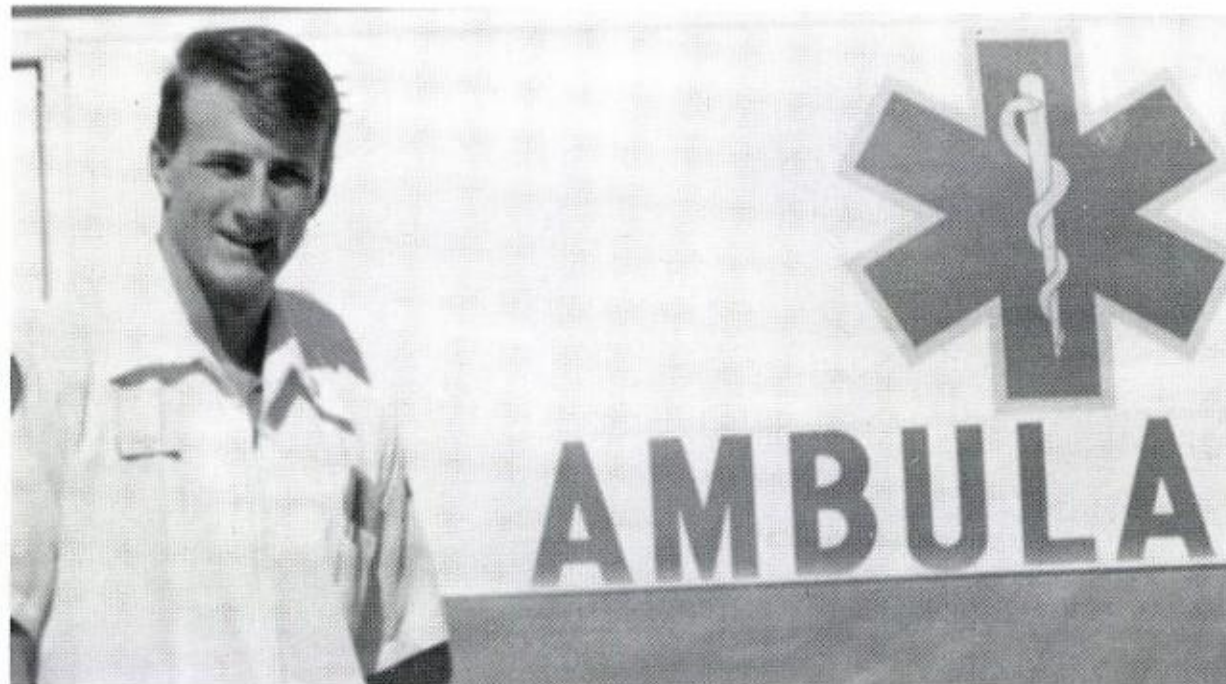

"We got a chance to see what elections were really about."
—senior polls worker Terri Allee

After half-time, the Chucks decide to show off their shoes.

Working for Operation Life is an important part of Thomas Miller's life.

One of the many organizations Kristen Salsman volunteers her time to is the Putnam County Teen Center.

Setting an example for students is blood donor volunteer Dan Layton.

The Best Chimes

Students Create

Junior class president Mike Watts helps get things organized at decorating the night before the prom.

Having fun on the job, Chad Remsburg and Kent Flint show off their bods while putting the candles on the tables.

Putting together masks given as prom favors are Jil Gossard and Carrie Nealon.

You waited and waited for this day. All the planning, all the preparation—either it all fits together now or everything goes wrong. Most people made it to the prom without any trouble.

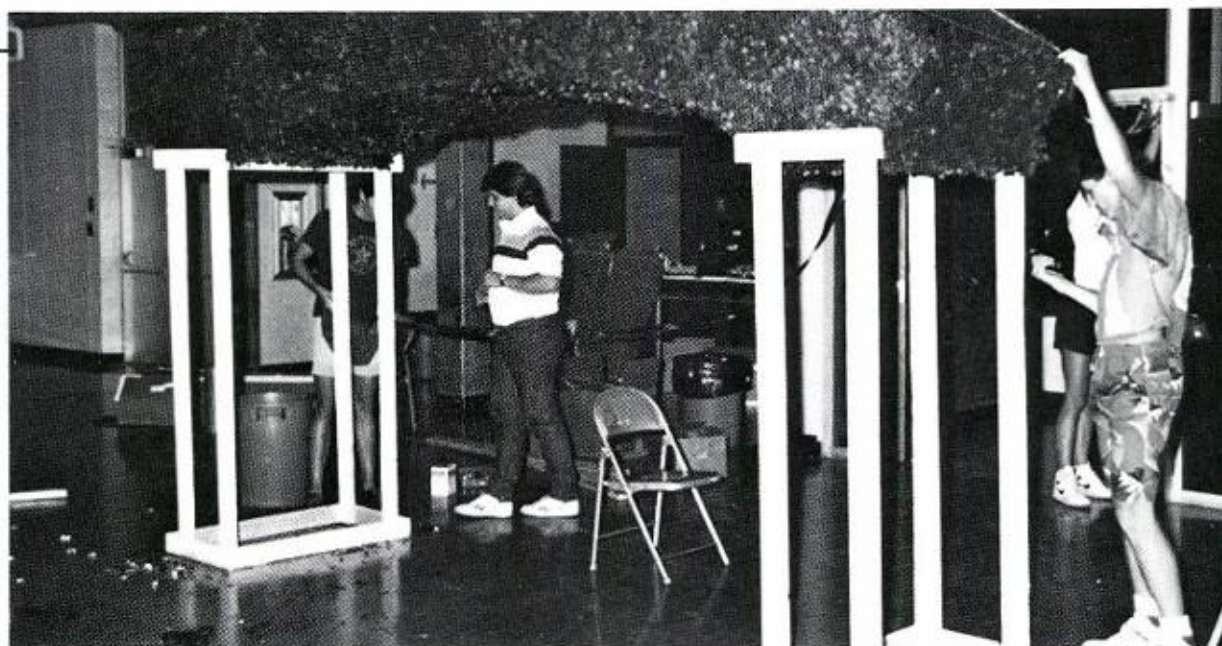

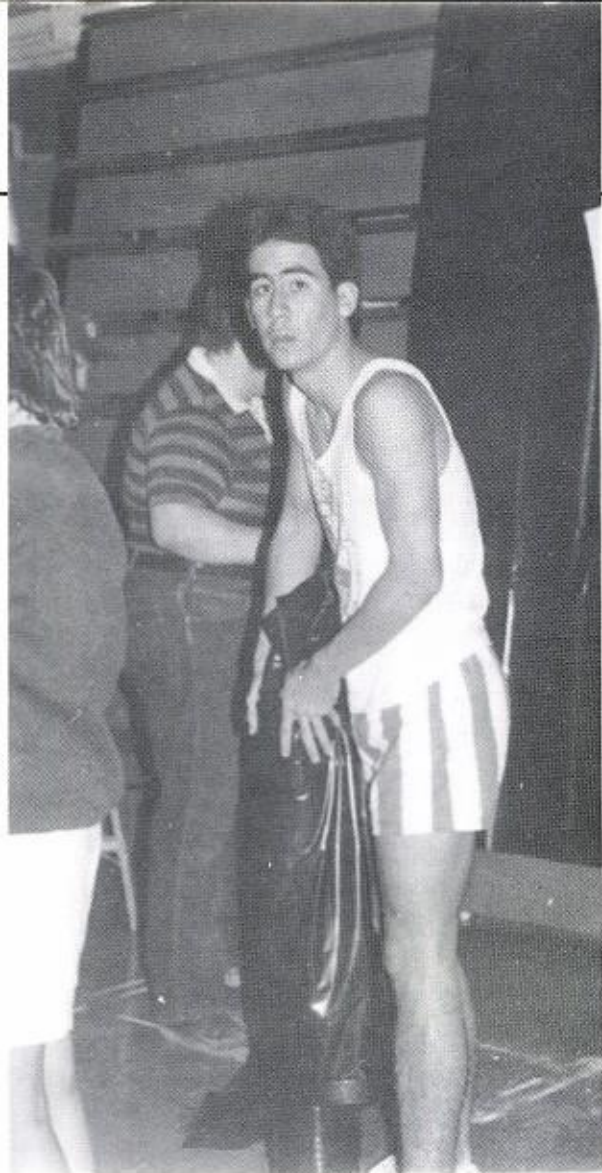

The day of prom, it helped to sleep late, if possible. The night coming up was promising to be tiring. Day's events included picking up boutonniers and corsages, tanning, ironing and/or cleaning dresses/suits, getting hair done and, finally, getting ready to go out to dinner. If the spot you picked was out-of-town, the best bet was to leave around 4:00, depending on your destination. Couples who were spared any mishaps at dinner made it back to town in time to change into formals and make it to the prom by 9:00.

by Sherith Pankratz

Getting the streamers around the archway was long and tedious, but Donna McCracken and Mollie McCallister eventually succeeded.

Trying to figure out how to secure the archway is Dan Hedrick, Bill Newgent, and Jeff King.

Glancing around, Mr. Harbison makes sure the job is being done right.

Taking time out to cool down at decorating the night before the prom are juniors Diane Kendall, Vicki Parker and Matt Davis.

Attaching the streamers, Jeff King adds the finishing touch to the archway.

An Elegant Memory

Masquerade Creates

All dressed up and ready to go are Kristy Mays and her escort John Hecko.

The three hours went fast. Pictures were taken, honors given, ties loosened and shoes kicked off. The time was fun-filled and flew by.

The 1987 prom theme was Masquerade, supplemented by the colors red, black, and silver. Freshmen and sophomores ushered, seating couples and handing out masks and programs. Near the end of the evening, prom king Scott Dunn and prom queen Amy Tucker were crowned, after which the theme song 'Never Say Goodbye,' by Bon Jovi, was played. The night ended with a pair of slow songs and a thank-you from sponsor Larry Mason.

Post-prom, held at Lilly Center and sponsored by junior parents, lasted from 1:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Prizes were awarded and the movie "Top Gun" was shown, along with numerous other recreational activities.

by Sherith Pankratz

Enjoying the magic of the evening are seniors Stacey Irwin and Michele Archer.

The happy faces of Terri Alea and Ray Nealon reflect the mood of the evening.

Getting a lift from date Todd Bock is senior Patty Brown.

Friendships abound during the evening as indicated by Todd Bock, Patty Brown, Sharon Carlson and Bert Brown.

Giving the thumbs up sign for the evening are Rick Stewart and date Jody Gould.

Mystical Prom Evening

Checking last minute details with senior sponsor John Franklin is Dave Pickens.

Some final words to senior Ginger Weiss are given by ICE director Charles Little.

"During graduation, moments are sweet because we have finally reached a stepping stone in life. This is a time when we reflect on old accomplishments and look to the future."

*—Bert Brown
Valedictorian*

The ceremony may have only lasted an hour, but it was the culmination of many years of new experiences and enduring friendships.

Through all the tears and sadness, the 140 graduates realized the impact their high school careers had on their lives.

The futures of the graduates were varied. Some would be taking their last summer break at the pool and with friends before entering college or a technical school. Several, whose parents were transferred with IBM, were leaving immediately after the ceremony. Others were making plans for marriage while some awaited new jobs or entry into the Armed Forces.

Wherever they were going, the seniors were taking with them lasting memories and an education to be applied in their new endeavors.

by Sherith Pankratz

The first sighs of relief are heard in the hallways after graduation.

And Begin Again

Pride, Smiles, Tears,

Delivering his address is Valedictorian Bert Brown.

With diploma in hand, Michelle Archer gives a final hug.

Close friends Scott Dunn, Doug Hedrick, Todd Sutherlin, Mike Smith and Wade Terry pose one final time before the ceremony.

Saying goodbye is difficult for senior Heather Robinson.

"Graduation is the part of my senior year I'll remember most. It was the time our class was closest together."

—Michelle King

Smiling through her tears is senior graduate Trisha Robinson.

Welcoming graduates, parents and friends is principal Robert Harbison.

"Graduation was really exciting because I have college to look forward to, but it was also sad because I know I might never see a lot of my friends again."

—Terri Allee

Graduate Maureen Mazur watches as drum majorette Tawnya Pierce bids farewell.

"I was glad to finally be graduating, but it was depressing to know that so many people were moving right away."

—Kathryn Schwartz

A congratulatory hug is given by Homecoming Queen Patty Brown.

Hugs, Speeches, Finality

... there were Academics

In the ever-growing tale, academics played a major role. There were new class requirements for the underclassmen in English, Math and Science. From these basics a strong foundation was built to help upperclassmen in more specialized courses.

The familiar saying "You get out of education, exactly what you put into it," was applied. From the freshmen to seniors, all had one thing in common—curriculum. Students felt pressure to excel in all areas of study. But through the complaining and griping often heard, the students faced the task and by the end of the year, seniors were ready to take on the world.

Studying the Past.

Listening to his students discuss US government policy is teacher John Franklin.

Learning about the past, students were required to take three years of history. Government and U.S. History were required by the state, but a third credit of social studies was required by GHS to graduate.

Field trips were taken by the psychology class to Central State Hospital to see the occupation in the mental health field. The Government classes traveled to Washington D.C. to develop an appreciation of our American heritage.

Other classes offered by the social studies department were World History, Geography, Sociology, Modern World Civilization, Indiana Law and Indiana Studies.

by Doug Hedrick

Combining pleasure with learning, Doug Campbell displays a US map on a cake.

Advancing to the State final competition are Social Studies Superbowl team members Bob Chandler, Heidi Riggs and Bill Daugherty.

English Superbowl team participants include Lisa Spence, Kristy Mays, Christina Opdahl, Kathrine Schwartz and David Singer.

Emphasizing the important aspects of communication to Freshmen students is speech teach Jan Lucas.

Instructing Spanish students in, not only language, but also culture is Jeff Ware.

Always there to help, Miss Lucas helps a first hour speech student prepare an outline.

Teamwork was the key for Sophomore Katherine Emery and Senior Bob Chandler.

Students and Language

English and foreign languages are two departments that help prepare students for college. The English language contains so many subjects that the oldest scholar couldn't study everything related to the subject. One way to become involved and learn about other cultures is to take a foreign language.

Many agreed that taking courses from these two departments is important.

"French helps my English and it's an easy grade," said sophomore Wes Trout.

Junior Tony Meyer commented, "Latin and Spanish will help me get into college."

Ginger Weiss, 1987 class president, said, "Because the ability to express thoughts in writing is crucial, I am grateful to my English instructors for helping me develop my writing skills."

Junior Vicki Parker seemed to disagree. "I just always thought foreign languages were more fun, not something that you had to have."

In taking a foreign language or several English courses, students broadened their horizons.

Designs and Overtures

Advanced art class provides time for senior Kevin Richards to work on assigned projects.

Many of us can only look at art and wish that we, too, could do as well. Such sentiments were unheard of, however, in the Art department where wishing turned into doing. First year students were introduced to the foundations. From there they progressed to two-dimensional drawing, pastels, water colors, and tempera. The seniors made model city scapes and stained glass objects. The highlights through all of this were the art shows: The Putnam County Art Show, Tri Kappa Show, and the End-of-Year Show.

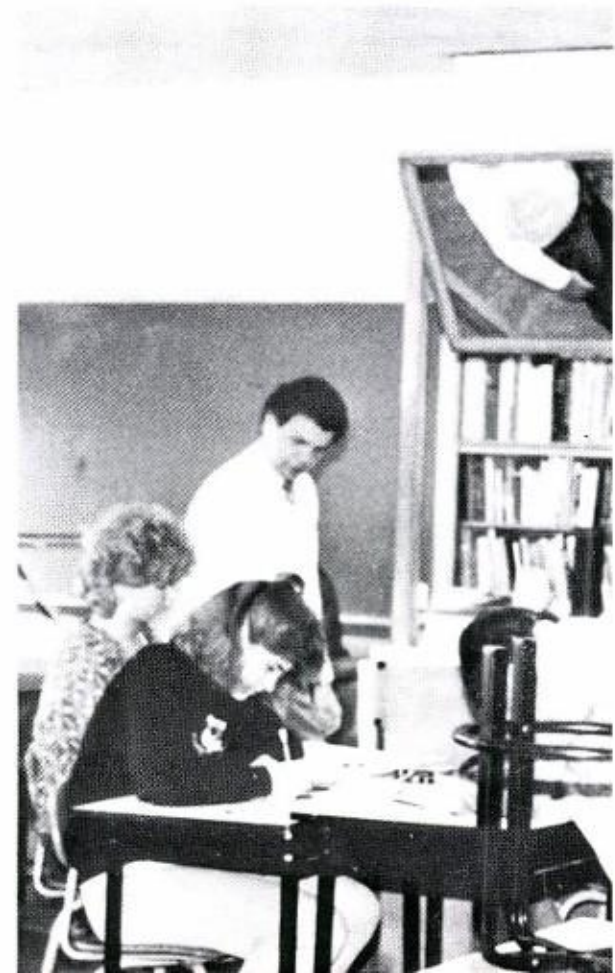

Of his students, Mr. Berry said, "I think, we have an outstanding group of students here, and the students themselves make teaching art a very enjoyable and worthwhile experience."

The vocal music department was a tale in itself. The students gave their all and the result was a top-of-the-line year.

Concert Choir, which was made up of freshmen through seniors, studied various types of music, such as spirituals, classical and pop pieces. They also studied the technique of sightreading new music.

Classics was a smaller mixed ensemble made up of six sophomores, eight juniors and nine seniors, who also performed a variety of music. Admittance into this group was based on audition, which consisted of sightreading and vocal ability tests. This group performed several times during the year at such places as the Kiwanis Valentine's Day Banquet, Fall, Christmas Concert, Spring Concert and DePauw jazz contest.

Overall the year was quite profitable and vocal music students experienced a lot.

Formulas, Frogs and Figures

Throughout the year the science and math departments were involved in many different activities. Students in both departments had the opportunity to attend seminars and workshops.

A rather new interest in the GHS curriculum was the computer class. The classes have been offered since the fall of '83. Some students, most of whom prefer computer programming, planned to explore the computer field after high school.

The science department featured a science fair in March. The Chemistry I students were obligated to make a project for the fair.

The Science Super Bowl Team was also on top in March. The students were selected to be on the team if they performed well in the science area.

Preparing for the Future

Business student Delena Deboer discusses accounting while junior Tina Shepherd listens in.

No matter what careers students pursue in the future, both the Business and Home Economics Departments had something to offer students.

The Business Department offered classes like Accounting, Business Math, Introduction to Business, and Office Procedures. Students learned how to make budgets, checking accounts, use a computer and adding machines in their respective classes. "In Accounting we learn how to keep journals and ledgers as a business would," said Junior Diane Kendall.

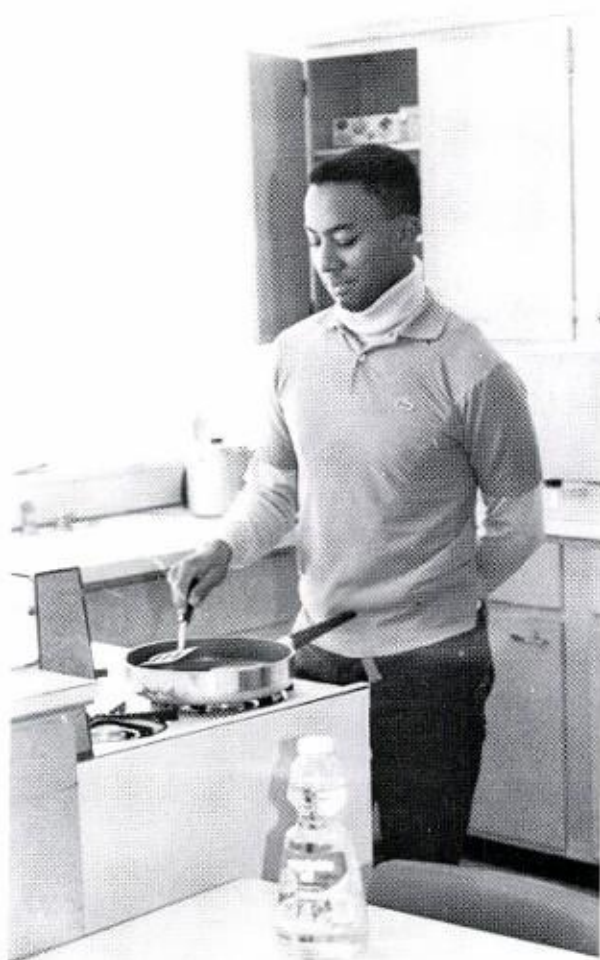

Home Ec offered classes in Family Relations and Advanced Foods.

The Advanced Foods students had a unit on foreign foods and cake decorating. In Family Relations students also planned their very own dream house.

In the Child Development Class students carried eggs around as their "children". Junior Melissa Young said, "It was fun and interesting carrying the eggs around and taking care of them."

Family Management students Christy Simmerman and Anne Foster learn being independent and financial responsibility are important aspects of their future.

Effort

"All right! It's finally time for me to have Driver's Education. Just think, in a semester I can get my license and go cruisin'. Oh no! What if I wreck the Driver's Ed. Car! Maybe this isn't for me . . ."

Different people enter the class with a lot of different ideas. An unusual reason was given by sophomore Marty Hanks; "I was afraid of getting pulled over by my mom." Instructor Dan Layton expressed his opinion on the difficulties of starting Driver's Education: "The most difficult students are those that THINK they know how to drive before they come into Driver's Ed."

Physical Education is a class also held in McNally. Freshmen are required to take P.E. before graduation.

Advanced P.E. is an elective which deals in keeping fit. "The class gives me time outside of sports practice to lift weights," said wrestler Stacy Irwin.

Another required class is Health. "The CPR unit in Health could be very helpful in the future," said sophomore Brad Garner.

Sophomore Heidi Riggs prepares to leave on her final driving test with instructor Dan Layton.

Students also spend time in the driver's education classroom learning about safety and maintenance.

Preparing for a drive are sophomores Seth Collins, Liz Napoli, and Sherri Tew.

During the lift-a-thon Coach Hesler is there to lend support to junior Mark Fajt while Scott

Applying his muscles for a good cause in the lift-a-thon is senior Charlie Poynter.

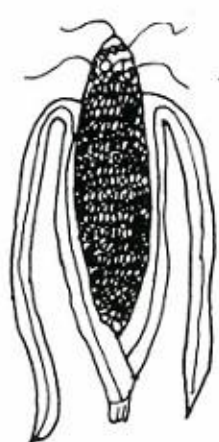

With basketball in hand, Freshman Kevin Mazur works out in PE class.

Stretching, muscle tone, and exercise are important aspects for Freshmen in gym class.

Alternatives For Future Goals

Donuts were the order of the day for Ag students Bill Newgent and Jamie Hyde as a money making project.

Industrial Arts attracted many students who wanted actual experience. Classes included drafting, graphic arts, machines, photography and wood-working. It was these kinds of hands-on experiences that helped students achieve both immediate and future goals.

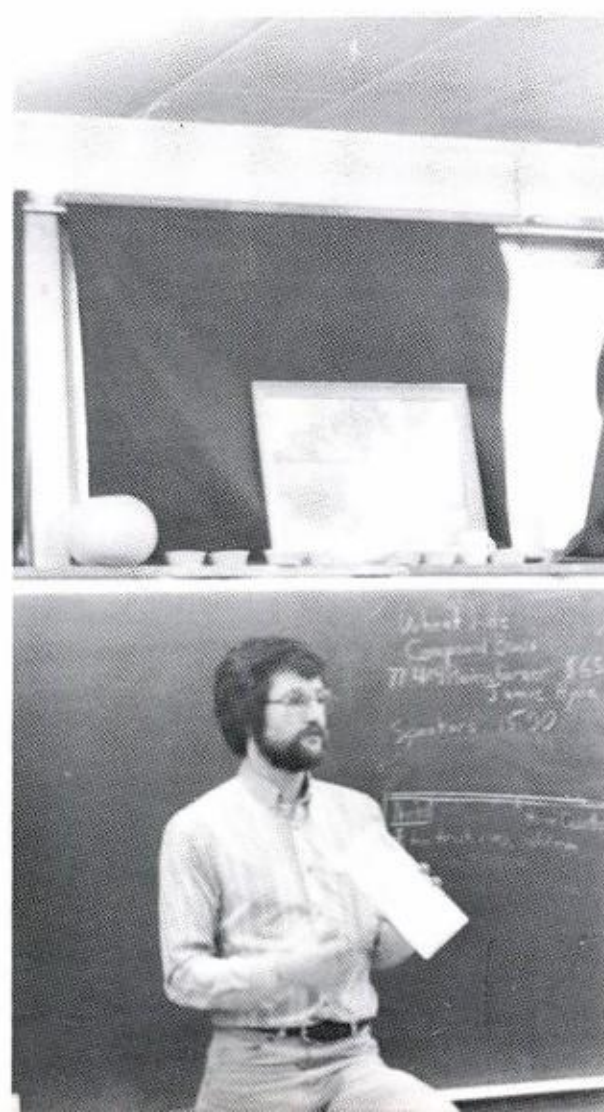

Agriculture was also an alternative for students who had either a background or interest in farming. It gave the students an opportunity to study the many areas of agriculture and its importance to society.

by Terri Allee

Discussing farm living were sophomores Kerry Williams, Tim Hood, Ron Sutherlin and Stacy Patterson.

Covering basic ideas in crops and soils was instructor Randy Hayes.

Concentrating on drawing are drafting students Todd Sutherlin and Neil Masten.

Photography student Todd Bouslog is caught off guard during class time.

Futures Given On-The-Job

ICE

In planning for the future, one of the ways a senior or junior could benefit was to participate in the high school's Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education program or in short, ICE. The other opportunity was the Greencastle Vocational School, located at the former Miller School building, which gave students an opportunity to work in a regular job environment and get on-the-job training for possible careers.

The ICE program was devised to develop a student trainee into a skilled, well-adjusted and valuable employee. On the job training and the opportunity to work fifteen or more hours a week for all participants was provided. "It gives students the skills they would not get from other classes for entering the job market," commented instructor Charles Little.

When asked what he has learned from vocational training, junior David Pettit said, "I learned a lot of skills I had never known before and what a real job environment is like." Chris Miller, also a junior, enjoys his work and said, "I've met a lot of new people and I've gotten skills you can't learn from books." Areas offered by the Vocational School program were Auto Mechanics, Auto Body, Health Occupations and Building Trades.

During the 1986-87 sports "tale" the setting was not always our Home Sweet Home. Due to construction, football, baseball and track teams found new practice fields.

The women's volleyball team traveled to Jasper, Indiana to participate in the semi-final tournament (No GHS volleyball team had gone this far).

The State swimming meet in Indianapolis took 6 women and 4 men to final-consolation round.

Underclassmen participated in a "setting move" as one freshman wrestler saw State Meet action.

Varsity Football

Setback to Comeback

"The team took their set backs and turned these to comebacks," said Coach John Fallis of the '86 football season.

The tigers finished the year with an 8-2 record, but GHS accomplished much more than 8 wins this season.

Quarterback Todd Sutherlin passed for 982 yards, rushed for 76 and scored 12 points. He also tied the school interception record with 11, 7 coming from this year. He said, "It was a great season with many accomplishments and a sad ending."

Receiving 943 total yards via Sutherlin were seniors Neil Masten, Scott Dunn, junior Jeff King and sophomore Joe Buis. Rushing leaders were seniors Rick Stewart, Bill Newman, Dunn and Sutherlin.

With a strong offense there must be an equally strong defense. 15 interceptions and 21 fumble receivers were attributed mainly to the defense this year. The head man of the defense, Rick Stewart, led with 142 tackle points. Junior Stacy Irwin was close behind with 134.

Sophomore Joe Mazur became a positive asset on the punting team during his first varsity season. Mazur averaged 376 yards per kick and a season high of 55.

Returning punts for the cubs was junior Mike Blye. Blye averaged 6.8 yards per carry. Leading kick-off returns with 201 total yards was Dunn.

Elected to the All Conference team were seniors Travis Mundy, Dunn, Newmann, Stewart and Sutherlin. Dunn was the winner of the Kiwanis most Valuable Player Award.

Now that you know some characters of the football season the action is next.

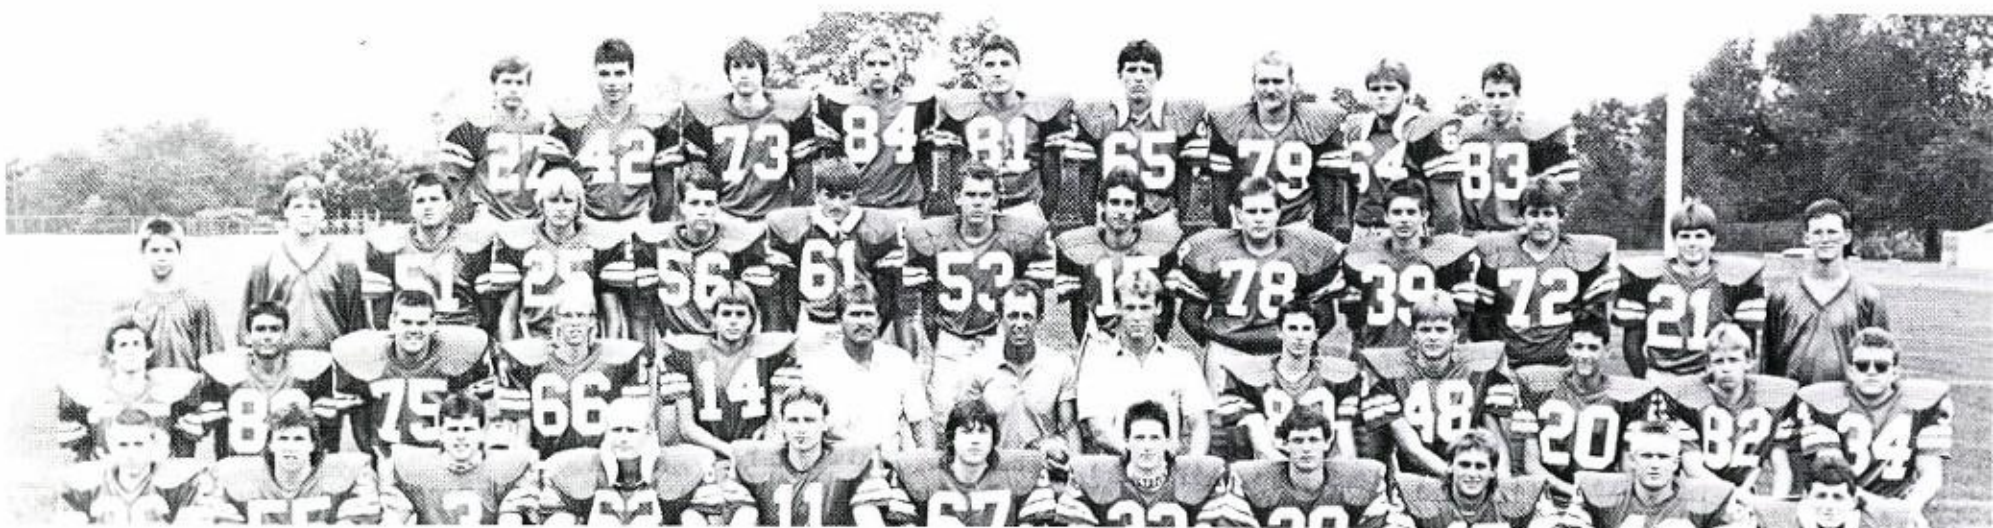

The Tigers tied for leaders in the WCC with a 7-1 record. The loss came to Monrovia early in the season. GHS played two games into the sectional. An exciting win was taken from North Putnam, 9-7. A blocked punt by senior Dennis Campbell and a last minute kick by junior David Pettit led the team to game #2 in Danville. The season ended with an upset to Danville. Neumann said, "The regular season went pretty close to what I expected. But the playoffs were really disappointing. I thought we could go a long way."

The all-away schedule did not stop Greencastle. Our football fans always equalized or ruled opposing teams. The Cubs defeated Danville, Cloverdale, Northview, South Putnam, North Putnam (twice), Cascade and Edgewood this year.

Teamwork Brings 6-1 Record

The JV Football team, coached by Drew Terry, had an impressive 6-1 season, with the only loss coming from the Tri-West Bruins.

The team started in the first game against North Putnam with Steve Story scoring four out of five touchdowns.

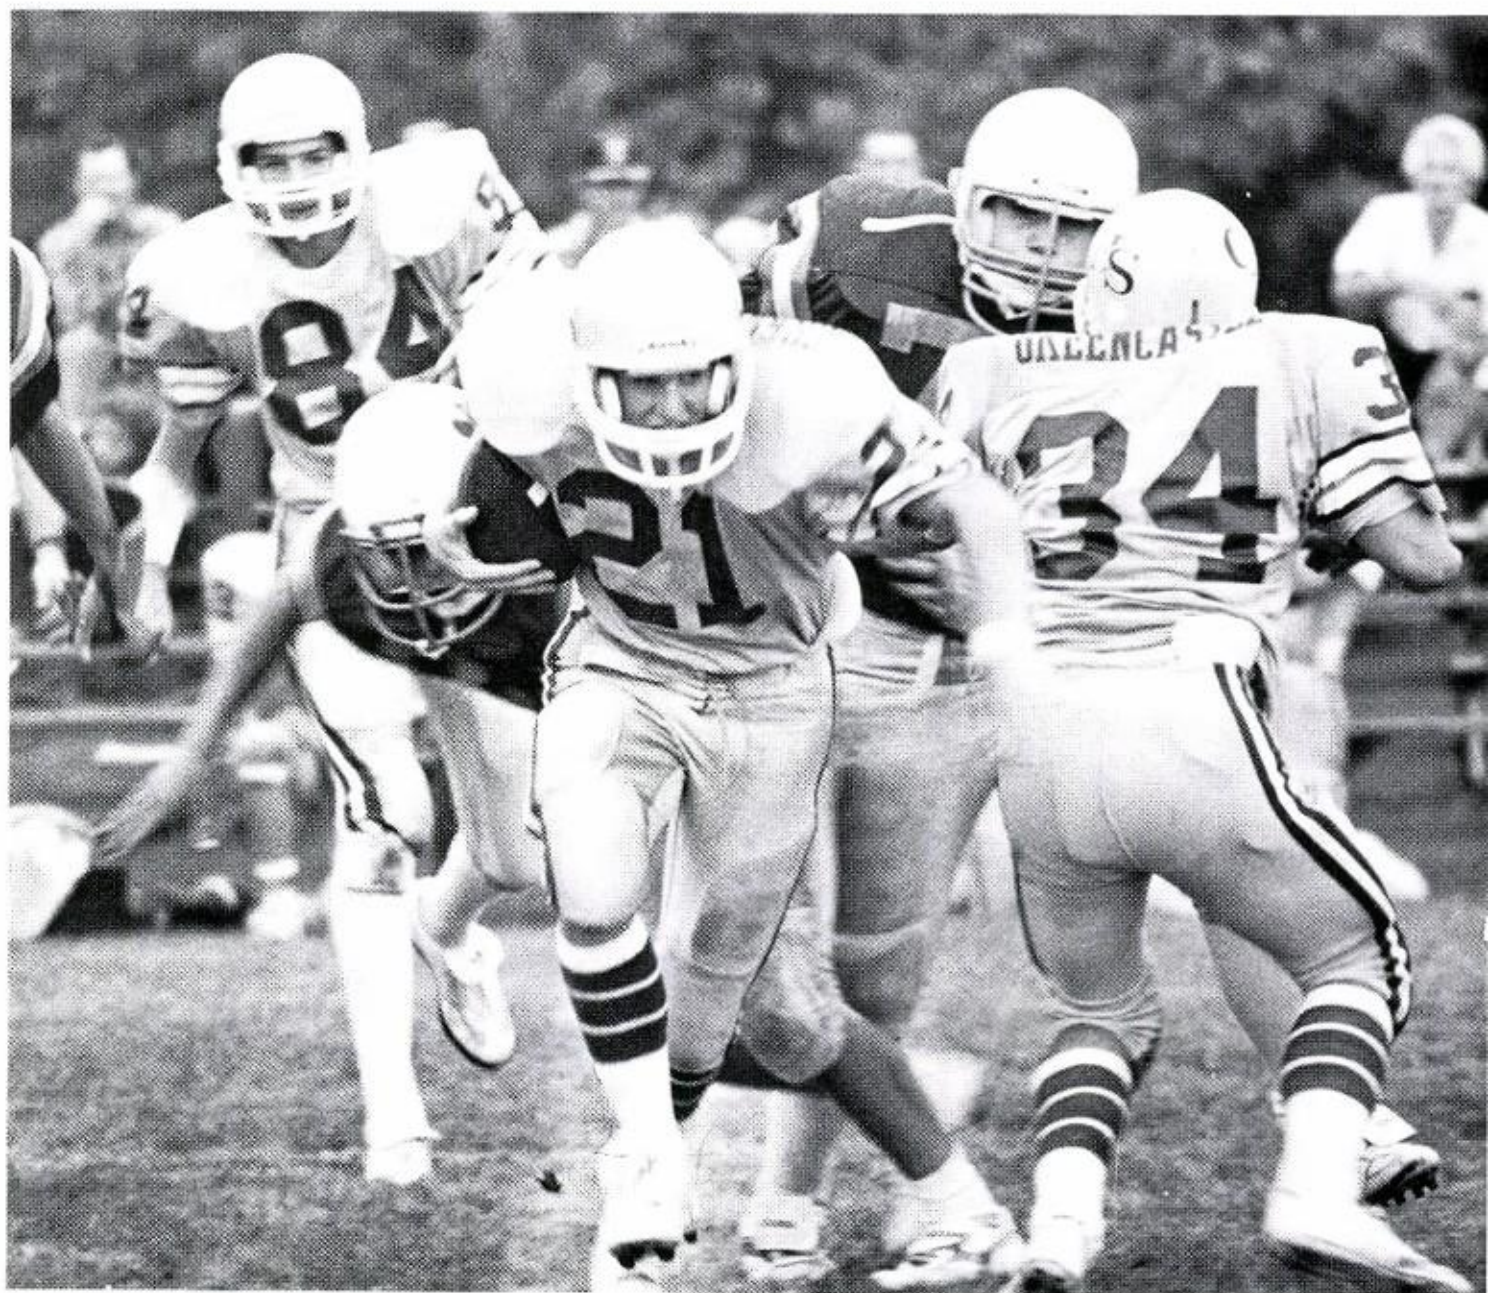

Steve said, "We were not playing as a team, but later we came together as a team and not as one person. We've had a good season."

Sophomore Chris Hutchings commented, "We went from a 0-7 freshmen season to a 6-1 JV season. I think in the Greencastle program and with our guts, we can only get better."

Endurance

Finishing one of her finest races, Amy Tucker places sixth in the sectionals.

"We obviously didn't have a winning season, but I think you have to look at the team's general spirit," said Coach Charlie Dobson of the '86 Cross Country season.

Senior Amy Tucker finished with a second place at the County meet in the junior varsity race.

Senior third-year runner Bob Chandler was captain of the team. His best performance was at the WCC meet, where he placed 7th out of over 70 runners. Senior Shawn Tharp ran his 4th season of Cross Country, ranking close behind Chandler on the team.

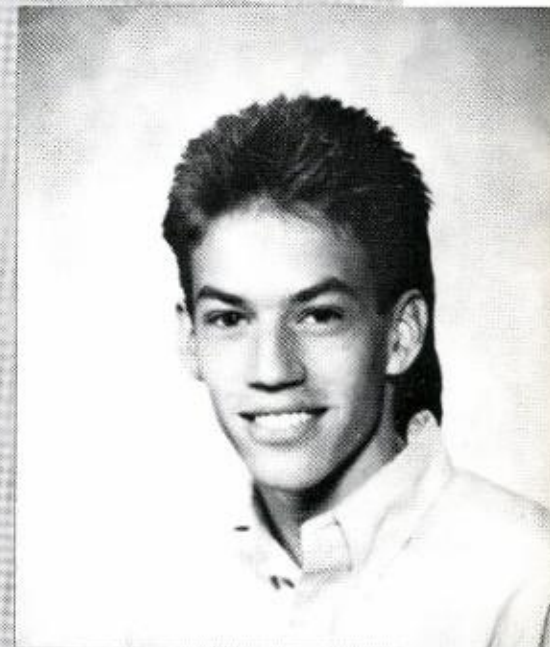

David Brown and Jerrod Kendall ran well at the WCC meet, with Kendall placing 17th and Brown placing 18th.

Our GHS men's tennis team completed the season with a defeating record of 3-8.

Two returning lettermen, Corey Stinnett and Drew Brattain, served as the team's best record holders. Both Stinnett and Brattain played #1 and #2 singles throughout the season.

Ray Nealon, senior, held down the #3 spot. The duo of seniors Brian Jeffries and Curtis Lawrence carried the #1 doubles position while Richard Weaver and John McDonald maintained #2 doubles. Scott Bennett finished the season at #2 doubles (in place of McDonald).

The men's tennis team drew one of the toughest teams in overall competition for the sectionals. Western Boone pulled a 5-0 victory.

The junior varsity team's singles players were Scott Rehlander, Bill Lezotte, and Steve Moell.

Women's Golf

Team Looks

Forward

Watching with anticipation, Jil Gossard watches her birdie putt fall.

Sending her putt on its way, Kristy Mays tries to save par.

Despite the losing record of the GHS girl's Golf Team, there was some hope for next season. "I believe if the team members concentrate and practice a little harder on golf this summer, we can come back and have a pretty good season next fall," commented junior Jil Gossard.

Coach Ross said, "The GHS girl's Golf Team is a mixture of experience with inexperience. They faced one of the toughest schedules of any athletic team in the school. Next year should be better as we will have 14 of 15 players returning."

Ross continued, "We are especially encouraged by six freshmen who are on the team and look forward to a bright future."

The 1986 team finished the season with two wins and eight losses, and placed seventh in their sectional.

The Kiwanis MVP award was given to Jil Gossard. Pam Morouzis received the Mental Attitude Award. Gossard was given a plaque for her average of 18 putts during the season, and Kathryn Schwartz was chosen by her teammates and coach as Most Improved Player.

JV Volleyball

Unbelievable Season

The JV volleyball team ended their season with the record of 20-3. "This season went very well," commented Coach Jan Jefferies.

The JV volleyball team went undefeated until they played Northview, a sure battle for the Tiger Cubs. In the Terre Haute South tournament, Greencastle and Edgewood met in the championship game, in which Greencastle was defeated. Cloverdale, their final opponent, was ready for Greencastle as they gave the Tigers their third loss.

In the County Tourney, Greencastle defeated the Eagles, playing North Putnam in the final game. The Tigers beat the Cougars, 15-13, 15-12.

The varsity team was also named Putnam County Champs. They easily beat South Putnam in the first round then recorded a victory over Cloverdale.

Next on the list of accomplishments was winning the Danville Tournament. Setter Kristy Maguire said, "Winning the tournament gave us the confidence we needed to go undefeated."

With a 25-0 record, the Tiger Cubs won their own sectional and made their first regional appearance in seven years.

By defeating Owen Valley and Northview the team went to the semi-state to take on Providence. Greencastle was defeated in three games.

The '85 season was a tough act to follow. "I think everyone expected us to be undefeated again this year, and that put a lot of pressure on us. We did, however, pull out a winning season and a WCC and sectional victory," said sophomore Kim Hinkle.

Finishing the season with a 12-3-1 record, the Lady Tiger Sharks successfully won their WCC championship and also achieved a sectional title.

Carrie Nealon who qualified for the state meet in the 200 Medley Relay, the 500 Free and the 400 free relay commented, "We finished our season on a high. We won our sectional for the third time, but the best thing about this year was that we sent seven girls to state—more than we've ever sent before."

Varsity Basketball

Varsity Takes County

Another season has come and gone for the Greencastle Varsity Basketball team, but it wasn't a season of bad memories. The Tiger Cubs rallied to win the county bucket five times. The Cubs captured the WCC title and had an overall record of 14-7. But by defending the bucket there had to be rivalry involved, and so South Putnam was that. Early in the season Greencastle beat the Eagles in the final game of the county tournament with a last second shot by Chad Remsburg. Then in the regular season Greencastle beat South Putnam again by spreading the winning margin to four.

The Greencastle Basketball team will be missing the court presence of six seniors. Doug Hedrick, Todd Sutherland, Scott Dunn, Chris Hanson, who received the highly prestigious Hockema Award; Rob York and Thomas Miller. Brett Hecko and Chad Remsburg started as juniors. Brett Hecko received the Kiwanis Most Valuable player award. Hecko scored 170 points during the season. David Pettit also was a junior who contributed many of valuable minutes.

by Doug Hedrick

Waiting to get the ball and push it up the floor is junior Brett "Moose" Hecko.

While giving high fives to team mates, All-County and All-WCC player Scott Dunn parades onto the floor.

Leaping for the two pointer is forward Chris Hanson while David Pettit and Doug Hedrick await the rebound.

JV Basketball Coming Back on the Rebound

JV Basketball got off to a slow start, but came back in the end of the season. Coach Jeff Miller said, "Point wise, Cascade was our best game, 41-25."

The 1986-87 season went slowly according to some of the JV players. Sophomore guard Pete Huber said, "It seemed like it was going to be a real long season before Christmas break but then we got it together and finished with a winning record." Ron Sutherlin said, "JV got off to a slow start but half way through we made a come back."

Coach Miller praised the fans for their cheering and support in helping a team come from behind.

"It was a very good season. I was pleased with the team," Miller said.

The freshman basketball team, coached by Tony Roberts, finished their season with a 15-13 record. The B-team finished with a 3-7 record.

Bob Moore, their leading scorer and rebounder, averaged 10 points per game.

B-team member Josh King hit a last second shot to beat Crawfordsville.

Robertson said, "The freshmen basketball team was extremely hard working, and hopefully learned a thing or two."

by Brian Jeffries

Leaping into the air, Senior Chris Hanson fights for the inside position.

Preparing for the pin, Junior Stacy Irwin begins to pull his South Putnam opponent into the necessary position.

The wrestling team gave the best performance for Greencastle, by far. With 4 individual and 3 team records broken, the team came out with a magnificent record of 13-2-1.

Freshman Wrestler Adam Plessinger said, "Mr. Layton was tough on us, which gave us feelings."

The team produced six sectional champions: Rob Osborn (105); Brad Garner (112); Bill Daugherty (145); Dennis Campbell (138); Brian Smiley (167); and Rick Stewart (155). Both Osborn and Stewart qualified for semi-state.

Assistant coach Bob Berry said, "I think we had an outstanding year, and I'm really proud of all the wrestlers."

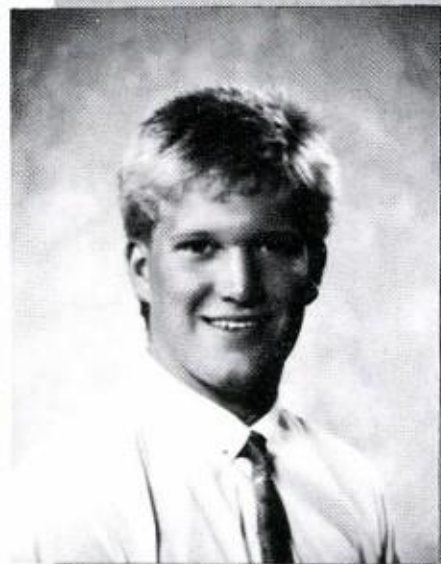

The team had several accomplishments for this season. They won their first sectional title since 1976. They finished higher in the regional than ever before (tenth out of twenty) and they sent two boys to semi-state, the most ever.

The Lucky Seven

It was a year for breaking records. Seven team and individual records were broken as the Lady Tigers tallied a 15-3 record.

The varsity Cubs set team records in both the best field goal and free throw percentage as they had early season victories over Cascade, Danville, and Lebanon.

Two victories were scored in the County Tournament, as Greencastle became County Champs for the 4th year in a row.

Northview handed the Tigers its first loss with a 48-47 overtime win in the Greencastle Invitational and became WCC Champs at 9-0.

In a 59-48 win over Crawfordsville, Kristy Maguire set a school record in the most assists in a single game (12).

Maguire also set a record with 109 assists for the entire season.

Heading into sectionals with a 15-2 record, the Tigers were to meet Mooresville in the first game. Greencastle lost to the Pioneers, 45-51.

Tawnya Pierce, setting a record with the scoring average of 19.0 for the season, and Carol Braden were named to both the All-County and All WCC teams. Pierce was also selected as one of the top 40 basketball players in the state.

Working to Improve

Plagued by injury, the men's track team finished second to South Putnam in the County meet.

Despite their record of 2-7-1 the team had a well-balanced season. Coach Charlie Dobson felt the team was consistent and ran close to their potential. Dobson said, "Although the final scores did not always show it, we had a good season, especially since we lacked much of the depth that we have attained in the past."

Senior Bob Chandler considered this year as a rebuilding year, especially since many good seniors were lost last year.

Robert Lewis, senior, broke a meet record in the pole vault midway through the season with a jump of 14 feet 4 inches.

Clearing one hurdle, junior Jim Jones looks forward to the next in the 100 low hurdle race.

Women's Track Near Power

If one looked at the women's track record, 5 and 5, one might say they weren't very successful this season. GHS track coach, Ms. French disagrees. "I wanted the girls to have fun and enjoy being part of the team by improvement and self satisfaction that I hope each of the girls found this year," commented Coach French.

Goals included winning the county meet and having a good effort at WCC and sectionals. They met some of these goals as they won county, placed fourth in the WCC and placed fifth in the sectional. Juniors Natalie Porter and Charlene Brown also qualified for the regionals in Carmel.

"I must say that we did accomplish a lot this season, both as a team and as individuals," concluded French.

Ready to charge the bunt is third baseman Scott Rehlander

This year's junior varsity team had a very successful season. The freshmen added a new dimension and combined with sophomore leadership to make it a winning season. "This season went way beyond my expectations. I thought my sophomores showed a lot of leadership. The real key to our success was great pitching," said coach Glenn Hile.

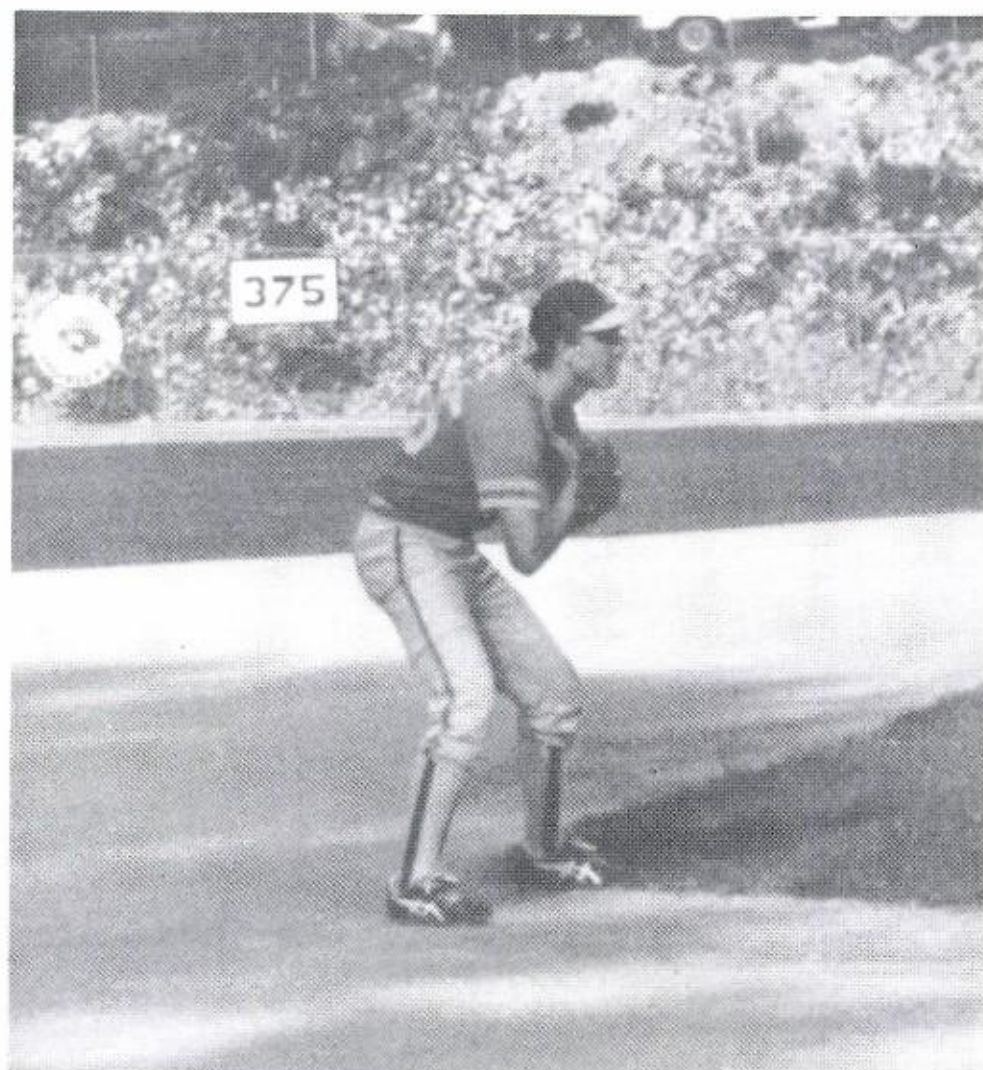

They beat some very tough teams as they beat Terre Haute South for the first time ever. "I didn't expect it to go this well because we didn't practice on the field enough and that's an important part of winning," said freshman pitcher Joe Hafley.

It was an enjoyable season and a lot of friendships developed between team members. Freshman Jason Luken jokingly said, "It was a lot of fun and excitement due to the statisticians."

Rewarding Effort

Throwing with full force, winning pitcher Doug Hedrick attempts to strike out another batter.

This year's season was filled with a lot of ups and downs, but in the end, Greencastle usually ended up on top. We were champions of the West Central Conference. The only loss in the conference came against Cascade. The Last conference game was against Edgewood. Greencastle had to win this game for the WCC crown. They won due to hard play from everyone. The heroics of the game in the fifth inning were when left fielder Mike Hudkins caught an Edgewood ball over the fence that would have proved to be the game winner.

"This year's team has been a surprise. We won the conference when I didn't expect to, and we didn't play as well in the non-conference as I would have expected. It has been a very team-oriented group. They have fun playing baseball," said varsity coach Stan Ward.

Individual Efforts

Finishing the season with a 3-10 record, the women's tennis team showed great individual effort.

Sophomore Alison Spencer said, "We had a lot of outstanding individual play, but it never really came together as a team."

For senior Kristy Maguire it meant individual success as well. "The season was full of ups and downs for everyone. Overall, I felt that my last three years of work paid off for me this year. This was by far my best tennis season at GHS."

Putting for par is sophomore squad member Chad Resner.

With a new coach, Steve Paquin, and a fairly inexperienced squad, the Greencastle Tiger Cubs golf team completed another successful season.

The varsity team, which consisted of two seniors, two sophomores and a freshman, were led in scoring by Andy Lewis with a stroke average of 41.3.

The team finished in the West Central Conference with a winning mark.

Ray Nealon, one of the teams two seniors said, "Golf not only gives me a chance to relax, but it also allows me to test myself as no other sport can."

Cheerleaders

Something to Cheer About

This year the cheerleaders had a lot of responsibility and they handled it with a spirit only they could provide.

Practice started in the summer at camp and the members of the squads willingly gave up their free time in an effort to make the sports seasons the very best ever. Camp wasn't all work, though. Many felt it was the best part of the year.

"I like the friendships that developed throughout the year, especially at camp," said varsity cheerleader Diane Kendall.

Cheerleaders also had the responsibility of physical fitness. At tryouts they were judged on appearance, precise movements, jumps, and agility. Practices which consisted of endurance were led by sponsor Tammy Robertson.

Probably one of the most important responsibilities of the cheerleaders was to promote school spirit. They spent many hours after school making and hanging signs for the lockers of the team members. Of course at every game night they took their places in front of the crowd to cheer our teams to victory.

"My favorite part is being able to get out on the floor and showing my school spirit and getting the crowd excited," said Varsity cheerleader Charlene Brown.

... there were Students

On a large scale map, Green-castle may not exist, but the residents knew what made this town tick. There were people here. This school may seem small, but it is the quality of the students that really shows. From basketball to theatre productions, students show their talents and once again told another tale.

Showing Our Good Side

After twelve long years of studying and making the grade, seniors deserved a few rewards. However, no reward could compare to being able to put those terrible underclass pictures behind them.

They knew they had accomplished something when they were not asked to put up with half-closed eyes, flat hair and crooked smiles. What power there was in choosing the pose, the outfit and the background (Yes, at last they had advanced beyond the background that resembled a kindergarten fingerpainting exercise)!

The ultimate blessing of seniority was senior pictures!!

Since senior pictures were, for the most part, taken in the summer, seniors were able to avoid that slightly clammy tan that was so prevalent in underclass pictures. Realistically, senior pictures were not the true images of our beloved upperclassmen, but that was probably what made them so appealing.

Then, as if they hadn't belittled and embarrassed underclassmen enough through their beautiful portraits, the class of '87 decided to leave their last impression in living color.

After some class discussions the seniors decided to foot the bills for their graduation caps and gowns individually and use their class dues to put the senior section in color.

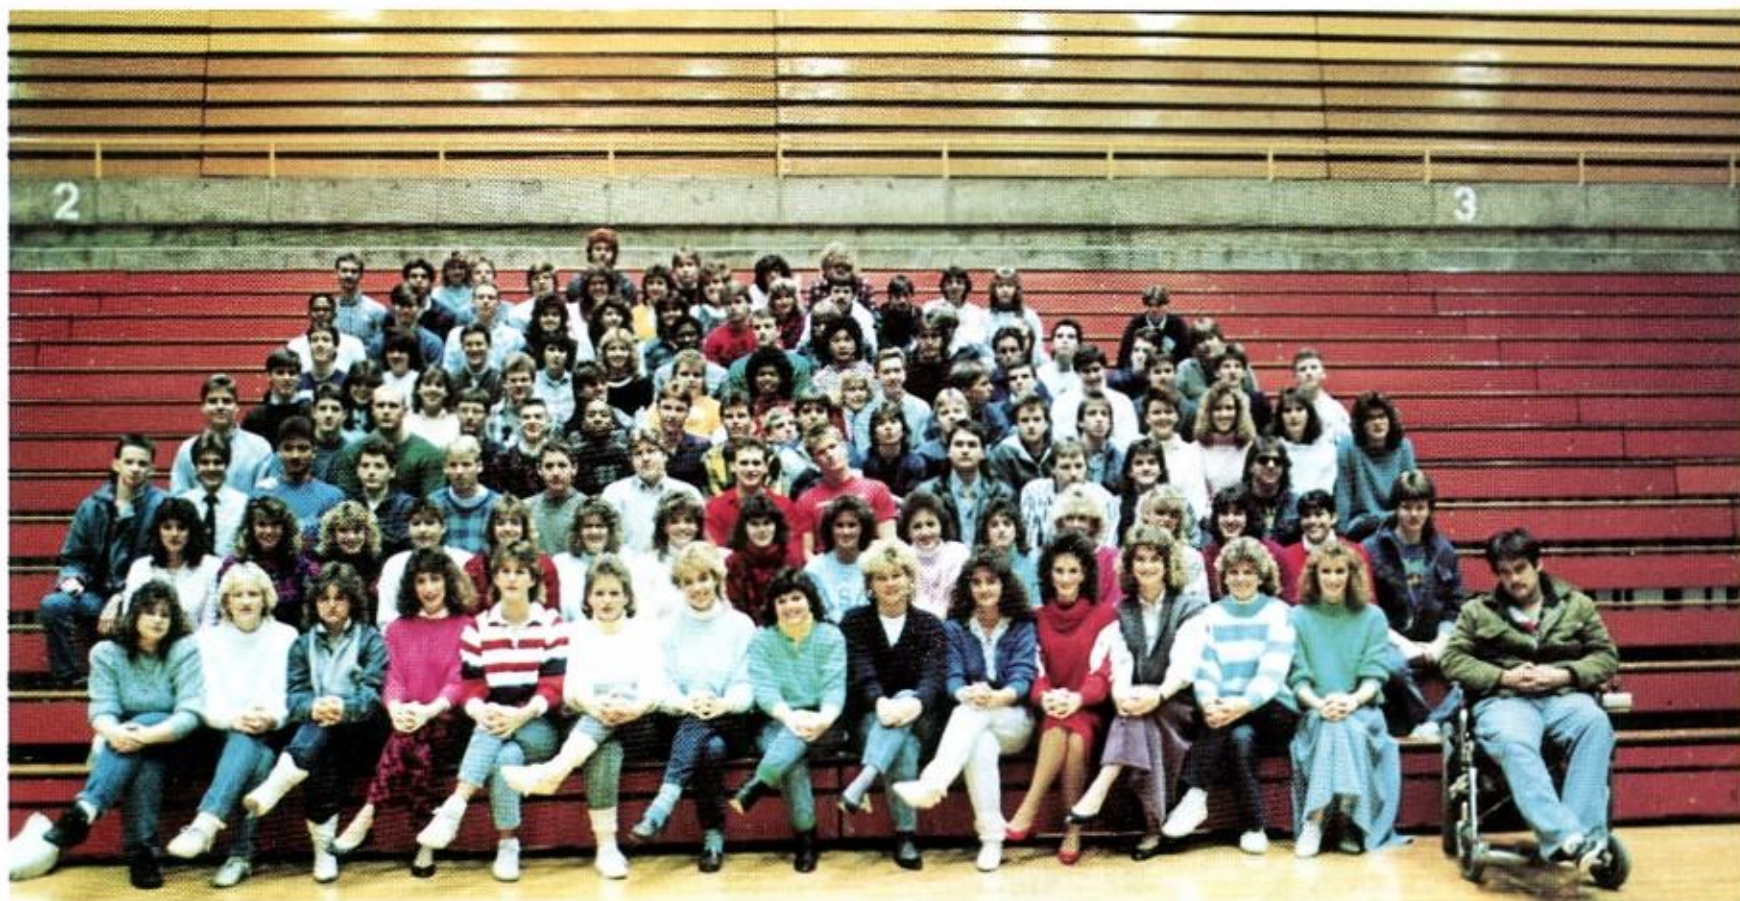

"It adds a little to our personal financial burdens," said Terri Allee, senior class treasurer, "but we're worth it."

So at last they had arrived. They were somebody. They had senior pictures . . . in color.

In 15 yrs. . . .

"One kid, married (hopefully), in the east (Boston), pursuing career in fashion merchandising."—Lori Hammond

"I will go to the east (Boston)."—Bob Chandler

"I'll be in Washington D.C. as a U.S. Representative. Of course, I'll be an avid I.U. fan."—Ron Pitcock

"I'll be in the south! Oh, and of course I'll be rich."—Kristy McGuire.

"I don't plan to be rich, I WILL be rich, somewhere south and I will be single."—Kim Lewis

"I'll be in the west living off the largest lottery payoff ever, laughing at those people like Kristy and Kim who 'think' they'll be rich."—Chris Hanson

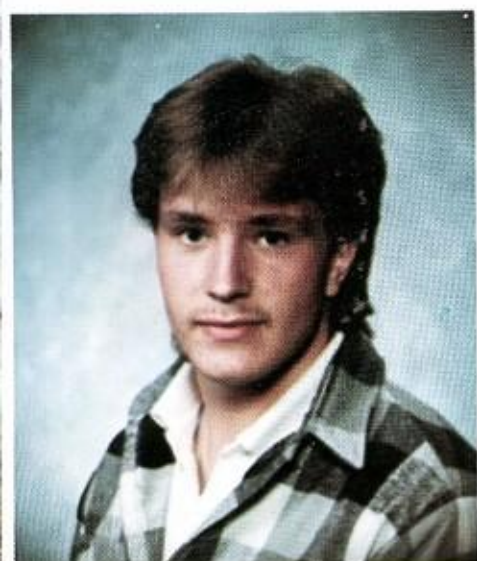

"I will be in the west also looking out the front window of my mansion laughing at Chris who waits by his mailbox everyday for his Publisher's Clearinghouse. He thinks he is going to win. I'll get married sometime, and have a couple kids, but not until I have a successful career."—Jody Gould

"I hope to find myself out east practicing medicine."—Lori Combs

Almost There

The Juniors were responsible for running the concession stands at football and basketball games to help raise money for the 1987 Junior-Senior Prom, "Masquerade."

Raising the money was no "Masquerade." Working in the concession stands meant pleasing the GHS sports fans with a cheery smile and a happy face.

Junior swim team member Carrie Nealon said, "The only bad thing about working in the concession stand was you had to work through both games and you couldn't see the game."

Juniors Climbing Higher

"Love in the afternoon . . ." This was a familiar saying to many GHS students in '86 and '87. Many hours were spent sitting in front of the television, rejoicing and agonizing along with favorite characters.

Some of the most popular daytime soap operas in '87 were Days of Our Lives, The Young and the Restless, As The World Turns, and All My Children. Sophomore Liz Napoli said, "I never miss them. They're great!"

Favorite daytime couples included Bo and Hope, Victor and Nikki and Frisco and Felica.

Nighttime serials weren't usually considered as soaps, but many were popular with students, such as Dallas, Knot's Landing and Falcon Crest. Sophomore Joe Buis said, "I make sure I'm home every Thursday to watch Knot's Landing."

Bogus Juniors

"Man, I'm telling you, the new girl is fresh." Words such as "fresh," "hot," and "sharp" were just a few of the wonderful slang that echoed through the halls of GHS. The students of our fine school blessed the English language with world like "awesome, bad" and "gaf" (a Greencastle original).

We all knew the old slang such as "groovy, wow" and "supercool." It was time for "bogus" and "gaf."

Blind dates aren't that popular around GHS anymore. Blind dating still takes a part in society but not as much as it used to. Students feel they must at least know the person, see the person beforehand, or talk to the person prior to a date. Students seem to be afraid that there might be a personality conflict with their blind date. Vicki Parker commented, "I might get stuck with someone I don't like." Blind dating will probably be around for many more years but it may gradually fade away due to new inventions for people to meet members of the opposite sex.

Sophomores / Somewhere Between

As President of the sophomore class, Chris Hutchings attended a seminar on the subject of Gifted and Talented Students. "We are trying to find more new and different projects for the Gifted and Talented," commented Hutchings.

Hutchings had this to say about being elected sophomore class President: "I was glad to know my peers felt I was the person qualified for this position."

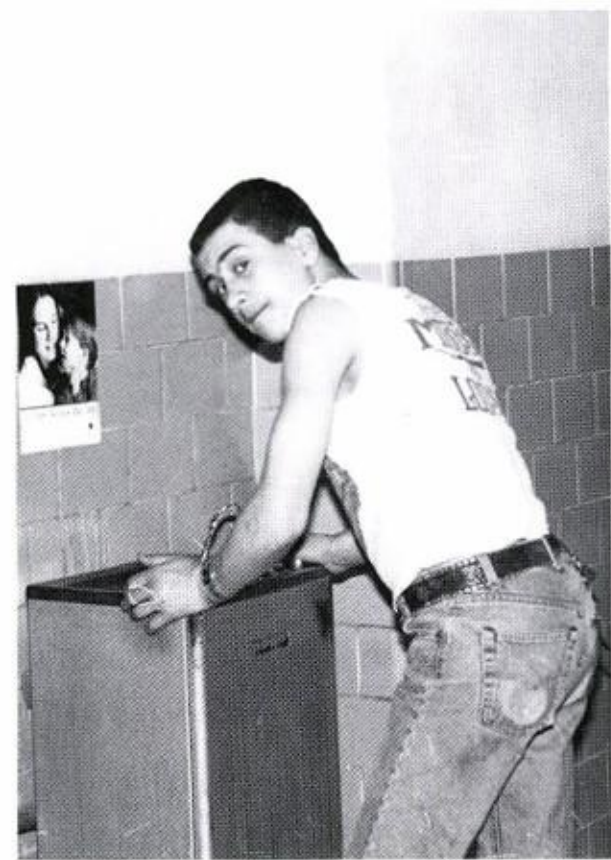

The sophomore class officers were also responsible for getting people to make signs for the basketball team.

Because no one ran for treasurer Nancy Claar took the duties for this position as well.

"It was a lot of fun being sophomore Vice President," said Ann Pier-son.

Sophomores—Perfectly Normal

Whether it was Garelli, Suzuki or Honda, mopeds seemed to be a popular form of transportation among Greencastle sophomores.

Since moped licenses can be obtained at 15, for people on the go it meant getting a license a year early. During the summer mopeds were seen buzzing through town day after day. Football practices and weekend hangouts were common sights for the vehicles.

Not only guys rode mopeds. Several girls rode them too. They just didn't ride as often. Kim Black said, "I wouldn't come to school on it, I only ride when I need to."

Some people seem to think sophomores are a little old for mopeds. However, Julie Gacsko said, "They might look funny, but at least our parents don't drive us everywhere."

Is this a typical moped rider: short little guy in leather jacket and shades, "hangin out" in a gang, cruising through the alleys with the wind in his hair, threatening all life? Not quite! Our GHS riders all seem perfectly normal.

Freshmen—On the Bottom

To make the prom run smoothly, not just juniors and seniors are needed. The ushers and servers are also a vital part. This year these roles were filled by freshmen. They had to be there an hour and a half before the prom began. During this time they lit the candles on the tables, set out the refreshments, and made sure everything was perfect for the big event.

Reasons for being an usher and server varied from wanting to see the decorations and just being able to be there, to see what everyone was wearing. Of course there could be other ulterior motives, as freshman Mark Davis said, "It was to look at girls."

Survival of the Fittest

Mr. Ross' class, speech class, and physical education were all events freshmen had to experience in the past year. We had some good times and some bad ones, too. Good times were living through the Fallis Mile, making it through a difficult speech, finally catching the wave of English class, and doing that 12-minute run in less than 12 minutes.

There were disappointments too—the pain in your calves after the Fallis Mile and the 12-minute run. All those events would rather be forgotten and some were too embarrassing to recall. The class of '90 could remember every detail about them, every thought and stare directed at them was branded into their memory.

But when 1987 drew to a close, the freshmen had survived. They didn't die from a fatal heart attack that first day when they underestimated the distance between freshman hall and the rest of the universe. Nor did they go into a seizure when they lived through falling down the stairs in front of the whole school (or so it seemed). Time passed, and now the horrors are behind them and forgotten. They will go forward in life.

Freshmen Set Goals

Freshmen officers had a big job representing the class. These people were Jeff Porter, president; Pam Mourouzis, vice president; Melissa Garrett, secretary; and Mark Davis, treasurer. Jeff Porter commented, "Being the president of my class was an honor." The officers had to get freshmen to help with the homecoming float, which was a difficult task to get done. Melissa Garrett said, "It was an honor that my class chose me to represent them." Mark Davis commented, "The treasurer doesn't do much, and what I did wasn't hard."

Administration-In Control

Keeping the school and its activities flowing smoothly was a primary objective for the school's administrative staff during the 1986-87 school year.

Principal/athletic director Robert Harbison said, "Greencastle athletics are important to both the students and the community. It may be necessary to attach the position of athletic director to another administrative position. It is made possible with a full-time secretary and helpful coaches."

Also providing help in the administration office was Assistant Principal Calvin Rehlander, who took care of attendance and handled disciplinary problems.

School Board—Decisions

Spending long nights covering school policy, budgeting school funds and especially listening to proposals for Greencastle's new middle school and high school renovation were things members Bayard Allen, Robert Delp, Clyde Spencer, Patricia Hess, and Edward Meyer thought about at least once a month at school board meetings.

Besides serving on the school board, members also held down jobs. President Bayard Allen was self employed, Robert Delp worked for Allisons in Indianapolis, Patricia Hess was a sales woman at the Holly Shop in Greencastle, while Edward Meyer was a teacher and coach at DePauw University.

Perhaps the issues of greatest concern were the building of a middle school, and renovating the high school. Patricia Hess said, "The toughest decision I had to make as a school board member was deciding what we needed to cut to meet our budget without sacrificing education."

Member Clyde Spencer remarked, "We are pleased with the building project this far and we feel it will be one of the best high school campuses in the state."

Faculty-Dedication

Working at the nearest quiet spot is Biology teacher Charles Dobson.

Thirty years can make a big difference. So can twenty. Or ten. And according to faculty members who graduated from GHS, the differences are many.

Guidance office secretary Mable Gardner said that in the late 1940's, basketball was the only athletic event. Girls wore dresses, skirts, and sweaters only.

In the late 1950's, there were fewer competitive sports for boys: football, basketball, track and baseball. During this period the high school moved from what is now the Middle School to its present location.

McAnally Center was built in 1969, and included a bigger gymnasium and swimming pool. Boys were required to have short hair whether they played a sport or not. According to developmental studies teacher Diana Orr, girls were not allowed to wear slacks until the 1971-72 school year. She said, "I think I enjoy high school more the second time around."

In the mid 70's, there was a larger enrollment—too many, in fact, to fit in the auditorium. Seniors had first choice of parking positions. Lunch was an hour long.

Librarian Marilyn Martin said, "I enjoyed my years as a student at GHS."

by Sherith Pankratz

Staff-Helped All

Students could have spent up to 350 minutes a day staring at rectangular shaped bulletin boards. In reality what did they see

These visual objects served many purposes, the main being to help inform or to promote interest. History teacher Mrs. Kriebel said, "I decorate my board to go with the general theme that we happen to be studying. I personally think it promotes interest by giving the students something to look at and learn by."

Speech and English teacher Miss Lucas explained, "My decorations are not just for educational purposes, but they also have a sense of creativity and personalization."

Other teachers like Mrs. Ferriss, chose instead to hang up outstanding papers of the students to serve as examples to their fellow classmates.

Teachers didn't receive any sort of special funds to cover the cost of the materials. They made do with articles from newspapers or magazines. The material was often free information received by mail.

In reality bulletin boards gave insight to each teacher's personal views and personality.

Innovation

The cooks and cafeteria workers made all the difference, working shifts from 8:00 a.m. to 2:30 in the afternoon. They had a big job preparing food for over half of the GHS students and faculty.

This year the meals had a new "zing" to them—international cuisine! They were serving a variety of food. To get into the spirit of these festive lunches, the cafeteria workers dressed up in an array of costumes.

When asked how she felt about dressing according to the meals, Sharon Scroggin responded, "We have fun dressing up and getting a chance to wear something other than the uniform."

Other additions to the cafeteria were the potato, taco and hamburger bar. These new bars (in which a person could create his or her own toppings) offered more variety at lunch and also helped reduce the lunch lines.

Did you ever think of how important the cafeteria was? The next time you go in there to eat, do homework, or whatever you may do, ask yourself—what would I have done without the good ol' cafeteria!

... there were Clubs

Clubs, clubs, clubs. The story could go on forever. Organizations gave us opportunities to get involved in nonacademic projects while giving us an exciting way to learn about a wide range of interest.

How about a pie-eating initiation, a Roman Banquet, Christmas Carolling, or hay ride? Some involved students learned about the culture they were studying by dining at restaurants or by taking trips ranging from Indianapolis to Europe. Other students had the opportunity through fundraising for needy causes.

No matter what your interests were, GHS had the club for you!

Honor Students Make the Grade

A service organization based on scholarship, leadership, activities and character for both juniors and seniors exemplifies the National Honor Society.

Member of the NHS must have maintained a 3.0 cumulative grade point average through their junior year to be considered for the honor. The National Honor Society had 29 members and 25 junior initiates.

The primary good of the National Honor Society was to serve the school and the community. The NHS had a tutorial program whereby students could receive help from an NHS member by contacting the guidance office.

NHS also donated money each year to a worthy local charity through an annual fundraiser.

Bert Brown, NHS president, said, "National Honor Society gives students the chance to show their leadership."

Brett Kriebel, teacher-sponsor of NHS, said, "National Honor Society is essentially a service organization. We try to do a lot of good things for the school and community."

Office Aides

Most of us didn't have any idea how much work it took the student main office workers and guidance office workers to keep the school running smoothly.

The student main office workers gave passes to students who were needed for conference. They distributed the daily bulletin, collected attendance slips, assembled paperwork for secretaries, and they even answered the phone in the office if the secretaries were not available.

"Working in the main office gives me something to do, besides sitting all hour. I get to get up and move around," said student office worker Jenni Lancaster.

Delivering passes to get students out of class when they were having problems with schedules or when they were meeting with a representative from a particular college was one job of the student guidance office worker. They also posted things on the bulletin boards and kept catalogues straight. When there were no Blazers available, they were the first ones to meet and visit with visitors to the school.

"It gives me a good idea of what goes on in school administrative offices. In the future, I hope to work in a school related atmosphere," said student guidance office worker Lori Combs.

Each student office worker volunteered one period of their day to work for the school. They did not have a study hall during the school day—giving up their only time to study to help the school run smoothly. Three cheers to the student worker!!

Blazers

After filling out an application and being selected for an interview, students trying out for the Blazers were asked to try a different situation where they had to spontaneously act out in helping a person in need of assistance.

Mabel Gardner, a scoring panelist of the try-outs, said, "I think it went well. I was very proud of the students."

The Blazers' duties have been to assist at school functions, such as open house, college night, which is sponsored by DePauw, commencement, introducing new students to the school and welcoming special guests.

Katie Gretter, junior Blazer, said, "Being a Blazer last year was exciting, especially when Senator Lugar came to speak."

Kristy Mays said, "After being a Blazer, I'm not as nervous when I speak in public."

Behind the Scenes

Everyone always recognizes team or casts efforts and accomplishments, but what about the people behind the scenes? These are people such as managers, statisticians, stage crew, and student athletic directors.

Managers go to practice just like players. At practice they chase balls, get towels, set up equipment, put uniforms away, and get water.

"They help the season run smoothly," said senior volleyball player Debbie Danhour.

When game time rolls around both managers and statisticians are there. Statisticians pay close attention to the game and record who got rebounds, assists, hits or errors. "Sometimes it's hard because I get involved in the game, but it's always fun," said senior basketball statistician Stephanie Dean.

At basketball games and other athletic events, students were seen taking tickets, selling concessions, and other important duties. These are our student AD's. They also filled up Coke and candy machines.

"It's really fun," said junior Maria Mooney.

Service

Taking care of GHS's video equipment and VCR's is just one of the many responsibilities of the Audio-Visual Club, headed by Ken Mitchell. The AV students make sure the equipment is in the right place at the right time, along with transporting it there. Junior club member Brett Hecko said, "I like to work with the Audio-Visual equipment and I enjoy the company of fellow AV workers."

AV is also responsible for setting up the auditorium lights for play productions and other events in McAnally. Referring to a year-end field trip, first-year member Katherine Emery said, "I enjoyed the opportunity of learning how radio and TV stations worked." Sophomore Heidi Riggs said, "There's a lot of work that went into the organization of getting the equipment to the teachers when they need it."

Dedication is the Key

The 1986-87 Key Club, under new sponsor Jeff Ware, upheld its reputation as being the community helper, giving "manhours to mankind."

The club began its first project in October, helping the Greencastle Kiwanis Club serve breakfast at the Ridpath Pancake Supper. In December, members gave their time to delivering roses with Kiwanis members.

In appreciation for their services, Key Club members were invited to lunch in McNally Center with members of the Kiwanis Club.

The Head Start Program greatly benefited from the organization's donation of $250, obtained by selling candy. Club member Kim Duncan was pleased with the idea of helping Head Start and added, "Hopefully we'll work with the Head Start kids and help them in their future developing."

Summing it up, second-year member Ann Pierson said, "Key Club set out to do a lot of great things for the community and although not all of them were carried out, it was a successful year."

FCA also sold purple paw pins and stickers for a fund raiser.

In April the club went to the First Baptist Church, then out to eat. Junior Bill Daugherty said, "I don't feel so alone anymore, because I know there are students that feel the same way I do."

"It's a good way to get to know people who are as interested in sports and church as you are," said golfer Leslie McManama.

Spirit

The G-club, under the direction of faculty member Stan Ward, proved themselves to be a valuable asset to our school by donating a camera to the athletic department. The G-club, along with the FCA, held a Christmas party for the athletes. The upperclass members had a surprise party for freshmen in the wee hours of the morning. A picnic was also held at neighboring state park.

Pep Club is always an important part in promoting spirit for various athletic events. This year was no exception. "Teams always need the support that the Pep Club can give," said senior Katherine Schwartz.

The Pep Club helped promote Pac Mac night, the county rivalry bucket game between Greencastle and South Putnam. Signs were hung in the windows of the town merchants. There was also an abundance of signs in MacAnally Center. They also set costume themes for both homecoming week and sectional week.

Scrapbooks were purchased by the Pep Club to give to the senior football and basketball players. Members volunteered to make one for various players and coaches.

The officers helped organize the clubs duties during the year. "I think it's important because the team needs support to be successful," said president Jodi Billman.

Life is One Big Fiesta

Starting the 1986-87 school year off, the Spanish Club sponsored a Halloween dance to fund their field trip to the Flamenco Dance Production in Indianapolis, with a Mexican dinner following afterwards at Alapulco Joe's. Spanish Club member Katherine Schwartz remarked, "With the field trips, such as the dances and the Mexican restaurants, you can really learn a lot about the Spanish Culture and have fun at the same time!"

During the Christmas season, the Spanish Club members planned a fun-filled Christmas party, which involved singing Christmas carols in Spanish for the Nursing homes, and a progressive dinner. Different Mexican dishes were prepared by Spanish Club members and shared with everyone.

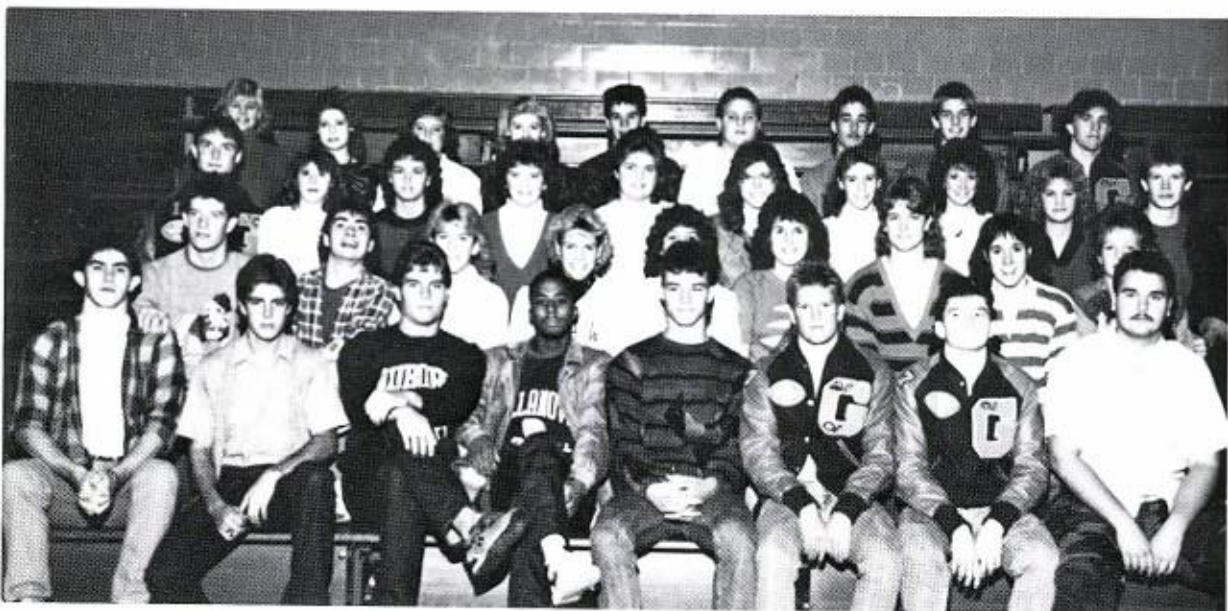

Spanish students, Christine Miller, Anne Pierson, Amie Linville, and Scott Bennett, took an independent trip to Spain with teacher Jeff Ware. Living with Spanish families and only talking Spanish, these students got a real taste of the Spanish culture. Mr. Ware remarked, "I've really enjoyed this year and hope to make next school year even better."

Music to Your Ears

If you were to come to GHS between 8:00 and 8:10 you would hear the Top 40. WGHS played a wide range of songs, from the oldies to the current hits.

Spending their mornings and breaks in the WGHS radio room, Robb McCabe, Bob Chandler and Blake Silver donated their free time playing music for the student body, and for many of the dances throughout the year.

WGHS didn't sponsor any dances during the year but they provided the disc jockeys and the music for them.

"In French Club, we work hard in fundraising, but it's worth it because we do a lot of things with the money we raise" said Junior Katie Gretter.

So activity was the French Club's middle name this last year. The year began with a candy sale, closely followed by a trip to Indianapolis to hear a French Band. The club also caroled at Christmas, and had a dinner in the spring, funded by a Valentine flower and balloon sale. Freshman Michelle Gastineau said, "We need to get together more often."

Club officers were Chris Haymaker, president; Katie Gretter, vice president; Bert Brown, treasurer, and Katherine Emery, secretary.

"Il est interessant, et formidable." (It is interesting and formidable.) said Freshman, Jenny Clark. Senior Sharon Carlson said "I liked French Club because it introduced me to the French culture, and made me want to go to France."

Feasting Roman Style

Although Latin is no longer a living language, it was still being spoken by the Latin Club this year.

Students took their lessons out of the classroom in December with a caroling Christmas party. The Club went to faculty homes and sang in Latin. Afterwards, a party was held at Kim Hinkle's home.

They also celebrated the Roman culture with a Roman Banquet last spring. Freshmen Brenda Rogers said "The point of it all to have fun and we did."

Students Into Science

Whether it was future scientists, people with an interest in science, or just the excitement of being in a club, John Garner's room was packed for science meetings. According to Garner, the club exists, "so students will become interested in science."

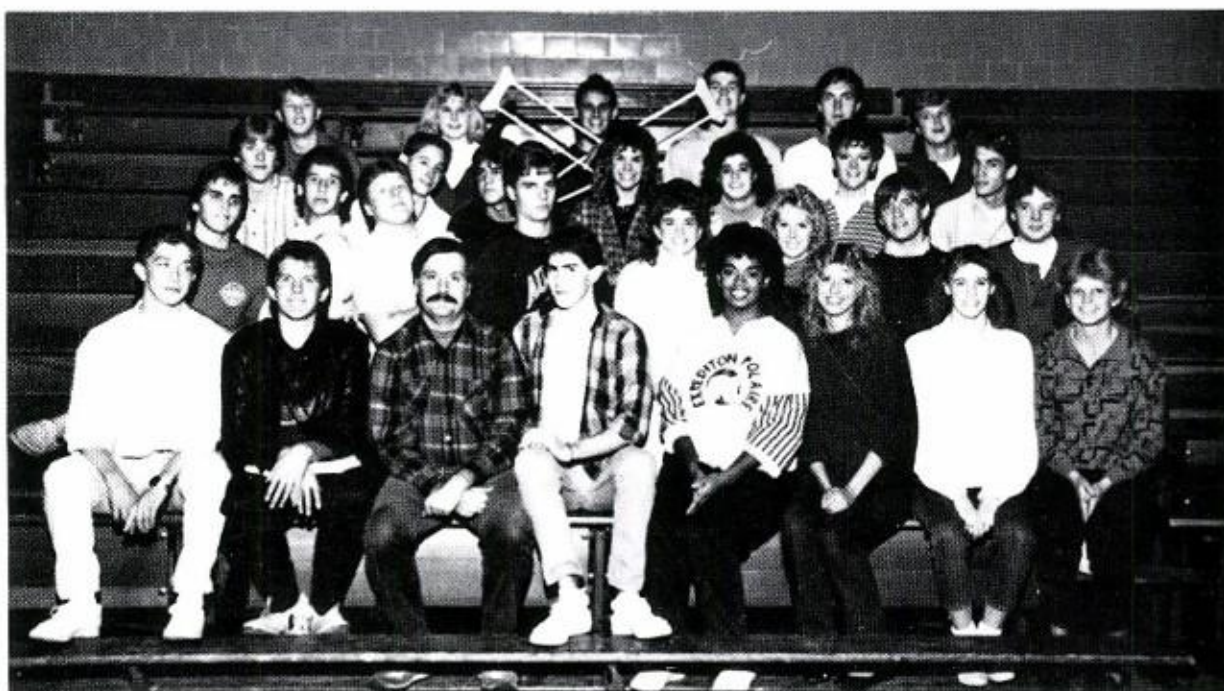

Lori Combs, member of the Science Super Bowl Academic team, said, "I joined the Science Club because I plan to pursue science in my career."

The Science Symposium is where science students are chosen to attend seminars, listen to speeches and observe science fair projects. David Brown, who attended the annual Science Symposium in Terre Haute, said, "The Symposium was a stimulating emotional experience as well as an intellectual experience."

Fun With Figures

The Math League was open to anyone interested. Those who joined were superior students.

The League held six contests over the course of the year, with six questions on each.

At the end of the year the scores were tallied and the person with the highest number of total points was the GHS winner.

The top five scores for each contest were turned in to the state to be compared with other schools in Indiana. The GHS top five were: Marcus Lowes with 3, Doug Riley with 2 and Cristina Opdahl, David Singer and Chris Haymaker, each with 1. Local winners at each class level received plaques and certificates.

Math League sponsor Jon Stark said, "This was our most successful year yet out of 4 years competition, with a highest team total of 123 points out of 180 possible."

Productions Meant Points

"Being involved in Thespians keeps a person busy with activities on and behind the stage," said senior Ron Pitcock. Students involved in Thespians gained knowledge and experience over wide areas. Stage crews, actors and student directors worked both onstage and off during theatrical productions.

The cast performed "Magic! Magic!" for the fall show. A dinner theatre combined with the One Acts was produced for the winter entertainment.

The members of the club worked during the year to earn points which applied to membership in the national club. These points could be earned by acting and doing any club-oriented activity. Member Katie Gretter said, "I enjoy being in Thespians because I like to put on the productions." Senior Sharon Carlson said, "By being in a show you realize that work can actually be fun."

Students Used Creativity

Ending the year with a reception following graduation, the Art students displayed many colorful, artistic works done throughout the year.

Art Club President Kevin Richards said, "I have enjoyed art this year. The art work we do outlasts us and stays within the school, not like an assignment we do in class and toss away later."

Art student Chris Hutchings said, "I enjoy art because the art classroom has an easy-going environment to learn in."

Art teacher Bob. Berry remarked about the year, "I am pleased with the work our Art students produce. We have many very talented students at our high school, and talented not just in art, but many areas."

Double Production

In room 214, Journalism class, words like "crop", "signature" and "spread" were frequently heard. Room 219 Journalism, "copy-writing" and "paste up" were the norm in the vocabulary.

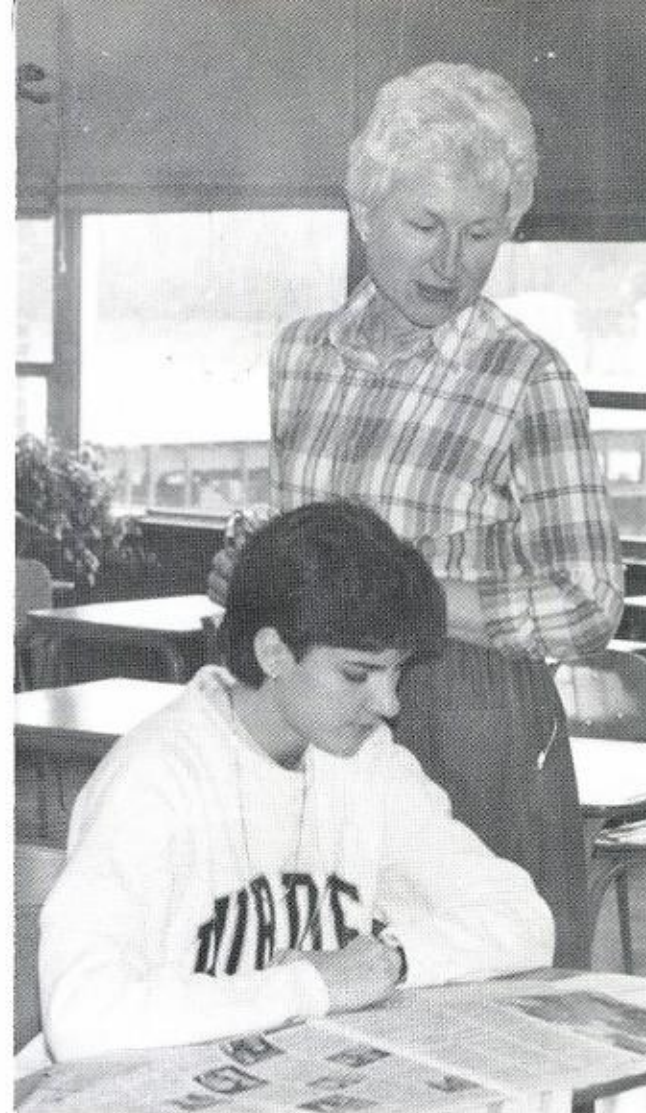

The journalism class was split into two alike but different production classes: Newspaper and Yearbook. Second year journalism student Paul Walters said, "I like the class because it is totally different from my other classes, and in some ways more interesting."

GHS newspaper, "The Inkpot" was issued 5 times during the year.

The many steps to the finished product included planning, rough drafts, picture assignments, final drafts, paste-up, printing and mailing.

"Being named editor of the yearbook was a big honor and something that I wasn't sure I could handle at first. It carried many responsibilities and required a lot of work, but it was also challenging and enjoyable," said junior Sherith Pankratz.

Agriculture Competition

Placing emphasis on leadership skills, innovative practices and the application of both to the industry of agriculture is what Future Farmers of America is all about.

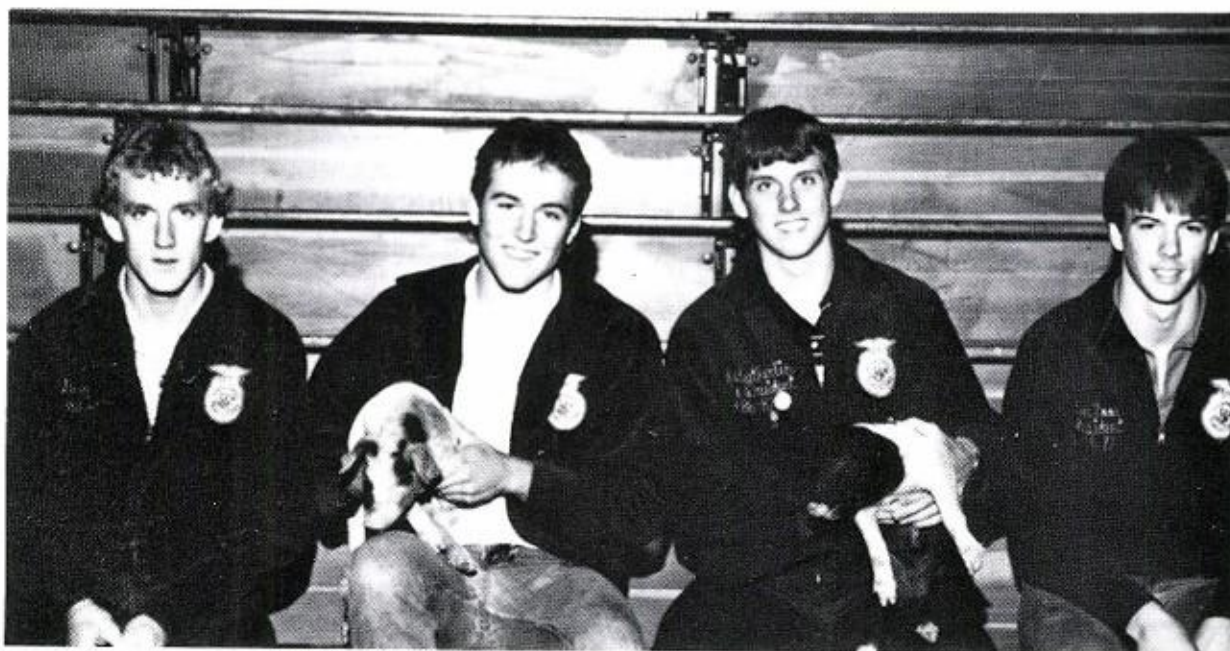

"FFA gives me a deeper background in agriculture for after high school," said sophomore Ron Sutherlin, who placed tenth in livestock judging.

FFA activities included the yearly citrus fruit sale and members sponsored a breakfast for faculty. Members also participated in dairy, livestock and soil contests.

Coordinating the 35 members in these events and the FFA banquet, held at the end of the year to recognize members accomplishments were President Tim Hood. # ... there were Merchants

Long, long ago, the town of Greencastle was a small village.

By the late 1830's twenty dry goods stores were in operation. By the 1850's several livery stables served the public and Greencastle became known for the thousands of horses and mules shipped out annually.

The earliest industries in Greencastle were based largely on local resources-chiefly wood, sheep, hogs, and cattle. Also among the early industries was a lightning rod factory which is said to have been the second largest producer in the country.

In the 1880's and 1890's a spoke factory sent spokes to wagon factories in every state of the union. Greencastle's largest 19th century industry was an iron and nail mill factory which was one of the three largest in the state.

Since then, Greencastle has changed into a town of private stores, department stores, restaurants, and a shopping plaza.

This year IBM, the county's largest holder of employees, closed down and some of our dearest friends and neighbors moved away.

Decade by decade, Greencastle changed with the times to meet the needs of not only her inhabitants, but also the rest of the county as well.

The 1980's are definitely no exception.

Colophon

Volume 72 of the Greencastle High School Minaret was printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks, P.O. Box 17, Montgomery, Alabama 46195. The press run totalled 350 books of 176 pages.

Printing was done on 80 pound stock paper. Group photographs, senior portraits, homecoming, prom and graduation were taken by Lester Wilson and Mike O'Shaughnessy of Photography by Wilson, Greencastle, Indiana. Some athletic shots were taken by Keith Domke of the Banner Graphic, Greencastle, Indiana, and several shots were personal donations from students.

All other shots were taken and developed under the guidance of John Moore of the Industrial Arts Department. Student photographers were Patti Rice, Jim Jones, Brad Leonard, Kristen Salsman, Jason Buchanan, Annette Schlatter, and Jeff Rowe.

Other class members who assisted were Ben Baker, Tod Bouslog, David Husk, Brian Jeffries, Travis Mundy, Tom Sutherlin, Terry White, Ron Woodall, Rob York, Missy Collins, Rebecca Collins, Tina Crabtree, Tylan Craig, Tisha Harney, Andy Manual, Bill Newgent, Paul Pearson, Mike Sears, Tina Shepherd, Mike Torr, Wayne Baker, Seth Collins, Tim Hood, Eric Judy, Darby King, Tony Mitchell, Stacy Patterson, Bruce Richards, Jeff Wells, Joe Whybrew, Kerry Williams, Scott Williams, Hyidi Allen, Sean Callahan, Sean Carlson, Ernie Chilcott, Debbie Cox, Anita Cundiff, Michele Gastineau, Cheryl Johnson, Lurissa Liffick, Jennifer McDonald, Susan Nelson, Pattie Norman, John Parmley, Adam O'Hair, Michele Seay, Kim Shepherd, Chana Stewart, and Clint Sutherline.

School shots were processed on Kodak glossy polycontrast paper in the school darkroom.

Print styles were 8 point and 10 point Chelsea Light captions and body copy, with 36 point Times Roman Bold headlines. The division pages were 60 point Freehand copy.

The cover was designed by senior Ron Woodall. The theme was "Have We Got a Tale for You." The book sold for $16 and $18 for those seniors who wanted their names on the cover.

Moving people and moving soil go hand in hand in 1987

Changes End Tale of 1987

Our tale was told. The last chapter ended and the book was closed. We struggled and strived through the year and finished with a sense of completeness and an excitement for the future. We began the year pulling everything apart and ended it with everything growing together—a football field, baseball field and parking lot turned into a new campus with a courtyard, new parking lot and new sports facilities right before our very eyes. A major corporation closed down, taking with it approximately 100 students and several teachers, while we greeted new students who moved in throughout the year. Writing the tale of 1987 wasn't an easy task, but it ended happily ever after.

for ever -

To:
 a real, <sup>sweet</sup> wild, crazy, funny girl. I hope like a lot, I hope we stay friends for ever. I wish you the best of luck in school and in the future. I hope we can stay in touch after I graduate. Good luck always!
